

WOODROW WILSON AT BRINK OF GRAVE, WAS NOT EXPECTED TO SURVIVE NIGHT

Referendum Asked on Fee System

STEPS ARE TAKEN TO PUT OFFICERS ON SALARY BASIS

Popular Vote on March 19 Is Asked by Special Committee of Fulton County Grand Jury.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE WILL DISCUSS PLAN

Chairman of Fulton County Commission Willing To Do Everything Possible To Aid in Plan.

Fulton county citizens will vote on a referendum to place officials of this county on a salary basis in the democratic primary of March 19, if a movement launched Friday by a special committee of the grand jury is successful.

This committee, headed by Robert Gregg, adopted resolutions asking that such a referendum be placed on the tickets of the primary, and it was assured by Claude Masson, chairman of the county democratic executive committee, that the request would be granted if it is approved by the Fulton county democratic executive committee.

"If the grand jury will supply me with a formal copy of the resolution," Mr. Masson told The Constitution Friday night, "I will be glad to call a meeting of the county committee and place the matter before it. I have not yet been formally notified of the grand jury's action, and consequently am unable to comment in any way upon it further than to say that I will cooperate in every way to bring the matter to the attention of the executive committee of the county, which has the power to grant the request."

Will Be Notified.

Mr. Gregg stated Friday night that Mr. Masson will be given formal notification either this morning or Monday and will be requested to call an immediate meeting of the county executive committee to pass upon the matter.

"Until the resolution is officially presented to Mr. Masson," Mr. Gregg said, "I prefer not to comment upon it. However, we will push the movement and will lose no time in presenting the matter."

McAdoo in Denial Of Any Connection With Oil Leases

GARRISON, LANE, GREGORY, M'ADOO HIRED BY DOHENY

Doheny Declares He Has Paid McAdoo $250,000 in Fees Since Latter Left Public Service.

BY UNITED NEWS.

Washington, February 1.—Oil has been splattered over a number of prominent Democrats by the unexpected revelations of Edward F. Doheny, who was recalled to be questioned further in the Teapot Dome scandal.

Doheny's statement that William G. McAdoo is on his payroll as counsel at $50,000 a year fell like a thunder-clap and much discussion has followed as to how this will affect the candidacy of Wilson's son-in-law. Doheny said he engaged McAdoo soon after the latter left the Wilson cabinet at the end of the war and had paid him probably $250,000 in fees thus far. McAdoo was engaged solely to protect Doheny's Mexican interests and had nothing to do with obtaining leases from the United States government, the oil man said.

While his was the major political sensation Friday, there were other significant developments.

Lane, Garrison, Gregory, Too. Doheny revealed that he had at various times engaged three other members of the old Wilson cabinet to represent him in oil litigation, former Secretary of Interior Franklin K. Lane, former Secretary of War Lindley M. Garrison, and former Attorney General Thomas W. Gregory, who had been selected by President Coolidge as the democratic lawyer to prosecute the government's case for cancellation of the Doheny and Sinclair leases.

Within an hour after the president learned of Gregory's former connection

NO ATTACK MADE UPON CHARACTER OF FAIR PLAINTIFF

Candler Defense Springs Surprise by Closing Without Effort To Prove Charges Against Mrs. de Bouchel.

ADDITIONAL LETTERS FROM CANDLER READ

Legal Questions Will Be Argued Today, Jury in Case Being Excused Until Monday Morning.

Contenting itself with introduction of additional letters from Mrs. Onezima de Bouchel to Asa G. Candler, Atlanta millionaire, the defense in the sensational half-million-dollar breach of promise suit sprung a general surprise Friday when it closed its case without launching an attack upon the character of the New Orleans beauty and social leader.

A lull in the proceedings is expected today, when Judge Samuel H. Sibley will hear arguments from counsel for both factions on various legal phases of the case. At 2 o'clock Friday afternoon Judge Sibley excused the jury until Monday morning, when the plaintiffs' attorneys are scheduled to resume readings of love letters from Mr. Candler. Indications were that the case would go to the jury late the same day.

Comes as Surprise.

Since Mr. Candler gave as the reason for breaking his engagement to Mrs. de Bouchel the fact that he had received reports that she entertained men at night in her rooms in a local hotel while she was chaperon general at the Confederate reunion in 1919, action of the defense in closing its case without attempting to substantiate these claims came as a distinct surprise.

When the defense announced it had read, Attorney Albert Howell, Jr., of counsel for Mrs. de Bouchel, arose at once, asking if he had heard right. He called the court's attention to the fact that the evidence had been completed without any effort on the part of the defense to prove that Mrs. de Bouchel was not a woman of irreproachable character, and that it accepted the enormities of her reputation introduced in the testimony of many of the leading citizens of New Orleans.

Based on "Trivialities."

Attorney Howell emphasized that the entire pleading had been based on technical trivialities and expressed amazement that the defense should rest without offering any evidence to support the truth of Mr. Candler's claim that he had received reports of improper conduct on the part of Mrs. de Bouchel.

Thirty-nine additional letters written by Mr. Candler to Mrs. de Bouchel, revealing further details of

HUSBAND ANSWERS COURT SUMMONS BY SLAYING SELF

Chicago, February 1.—"All they'll get is my dead body," Edward Nadle, a saw manufacturer, shouted into the transmitter when his wife telephoned him to come to the court where their divorce suit was in progress. Then he shot himself.

Mrs. Nadle, who notified him he was wanted in court to explain his failure to pay her alimony, heard the shot and ran back into the courtroom. Judge Donald Lynch told her to go to her husband.

Mrs. Nadle found him unconscious with a bullet wound in his right temple. A revolver lay at his side. He died before a physician arrived.

SWEEPING CHANGES MADE IN SANITARY FORCE OF ATLANTA

Two Men Are Discharged, Four Reduced, and Five Men, Fired One Year Ago, Are Reinstated.

Two sanitary inspectors were discharged and four reduced from inspectors to tentative positions as flushers to bring about reinstatement of five of the seven men, who were dropped as inspectors last June in the general program of municipal economy, at a meeting Friday afternoon of the sanitary committee of council.

H. P. Mallory, one of the ousted 1923 inspectors, was reelected to succeed W. O. Anderson as assistant superintendent of street-cleaning and Anderson was reduced to inspector.

Four Men Reinstated.

O. B. Adams, J. E. Simpson, T. G. Smith and W. J. Kelsey were reinstated as inspectors, while R. B. Brann and J. A. Moon were discharged and S. L. Cochran, Q. P. Strickland, Charles H. Donnelly and W. R. Mauldin were reduced from inspectors to tentative places as flushers.

W. A. Hancock was promoted from flusher to inspector. Flushers Paul Morgan, C. K. Whitfield and L. Dennis were discharged.

Action of the committee came as the result of a seven months' battle by the ousted inspectors to regain their places, a fight which caused Mayor Sims to appoint practically an entire new sanitary committee for 1924. Alderman W. S. Duvall, chairman, only member of last year's committee reappointed, voted consistently against the other five members, Jenkins, Cooper, Saunders, Johnson and Pennington. Pennington introduced the motion to vacate all places and made the nominations for the shake-up.

The number of flushers was increased to fifteen, although the number last year was twelve and the finance sheet adopted by council provided for ten. Mayor Sims' action in vetoing the sheet was taken advantage of to create the new flusher jobs for the inspectors who had been scheduled for discharge.

Opposed by Jentzen. Practically all the changes were made over the head of Chief John Jentzen. The committee, however, told the chief that it would discharge

SOVIET RUSSIA IS RECOGNIZED BY GREAT BRITAIN

Labor Government Suggests Prompt Action in Naming of Charges D'Affaires.

O'GRADY, RAKOVSKY TO BE AMBASSADORS

Downing Street Publishes Note of Recognition as Trade Representative Hands It To Soviet.

BY CHARLES M. McCANN.

London, February 1.—The labor government of Britain has stretched out the hand of friendship to the workers' government of Russia, and granted full de jure recognition to the soviet regime.

British Trade Representative Hodgson, now in Moscow under the Anglo-Russian trade agreement, has handed Foreign Minister Tchitcherin a note, in which Britain recognizes "the union of socialist republics as the de jure rulers of territories of the old Russian empire, which acknowledge their authority."

The note, which was made public in a foreign office communique here Friday, urged that Russia cease propaganda, and notified Russia that Hodgson would act as charge d'affaires for Britain pending the appointment of a British ambassador to Moscow.

It stated that Britain would be glad to receive a Russian charge d'affaires in London.

Necessary to Iron Details. The note stated that it would be necessary to conclude definite and practical agreements on a variety of matters for the purpose of creating normal, friendly relations. These include the adjustment of questions of pre-war treaties and the problem of settling economic claims and restoring Russian credit.

The note stated that Britain, therefore, invited Russian representatives to come to London at the earliest possible moment, empowered to draw up a treaty settling all outstanding questions.

It is understood that Captain

WOODROW WILSON.

WILSON MARTYR TO CALL OF DUTY

Washington, February 1.—Here is the story of how Woodrow Wilson, warned that his League of Nations tour might cost his life, listened only to the call of duty. When the western trip was suggested, Admiral Grayson told Wilson that he was too worn out to stand it, and that it might be fatal. The scene took place on a bright summer morning in 1919, in the president's study on the second floor of the White House.

Wilson listened in silence as Grayson warned of the danger of this extreme exertion. The president walked slowly over to the window and gazed out in silence for a few moments. He swung around to Grayson with tears trickling down his cheeks.

"Grayson," he said, "you are my doctor. I have the utmost confidence in your professional ability. Never before have I disregarded your advice in a matter of this kind. But now I must. If circumstances have rendered me so fortunate that I may be the instrument of putting an end to this terrible thing, I cannot shirk the task, cost what it may. The western trip will be made."

Faltering Voice of Dying Leader Whispers "I Am Ready" as Grayson Warns of End.

OFFICIAL WASHINGTON SILENT, SORROWFUL

Flag Over Department of State Flutters at Half Mast at Rumor of Wilson's Death.

Washington, February 2.—At 2 a. m., no change in the condition of former President Wilson was indicated. All was quiet at the S street home.

Washington, February 1.—Woodrow Wilson is not likely to live through the night, according to one authority who asked that his name be not used.

This statement was not elaborate but the inference was plain that the former president is sinking.

The physicians who are attending Wilson, appeared to hold out no hope whatever, although they will issue no formal statement.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington, February 1.—The last sands in Woodrow Wilson's hour glass are trickling out. Only a few more hours and that mortal body, which moved with such effect across the world's stage, will be dust again. Conscious that his span is measured, the former president lies on his death bed in his S street home, waiting for the end with calm resignation.

He learned the truth when his physician, Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, examined him Friday morning. The choking voice of his old friend and physician was the only sign he needed. There was a heavy silence in the sick chamber. Grayson was staring sadly out of the window. Wilson, in a faint, low voice, called him to the bedside.

"I am a piece of broken machinery," the former president said. "When the machinery is broken, and his voice faded out for an instant. "I am ready."

Tears Stain Grayson's Cheek. Grayson could not restrain his tears. Wilson, as if to comfort his old friend, reached out his hand weakly and laid it on the doctor's arm. "You've been good to me. You've done everything you could."

Now they are waiting there in the death chamber, while the hands of the clock move round to the former president's appointed hour.

Grayson said that Wilson might

RETAIL MERCHANT WOUNDED BY SHOT

Shooting Was Result of Caustic Letter Written Negro in Regard to Debt He Had Not Paid.

While standing by the side of his wife in front of their grocery store at 247 Chapel street, Friday afternoon, Oscar Richmond, retail merchant, was shot in the back by a negro who was firing at a lawyer.

X-ray examination of the course of the bullet showed that it entered between the shoulders, striking a rib and stopping in the left side, just under the skin. Surgeons believe the victim will recover.

Ben Hendricks, negro, was arrested at 91 Garnett street late Friday night and lodged in jail charged with the shooting after being identified by several witnesses, including Harry Williams, another negro, whose name had been connected with the shooting through an error in reports to police.

Williams, who gave himself up when he learned officers were looking for him, accused Hendricks and was released when other witnesses identified Hendricks.

To the Managers of Rogers' Stores:

Well, boys, it's been a week since I wrote you a line, so I feel a sort of appetite coming over me to say a few words to you this morning.

I don't hardly see how you could have missed the big ads we had in The Journal and Georgian yesterday afternoon. I know there's thousands of our patrons—and maybe some of the other fellows' patrons, too—who did see them, and who will be at your store early and bright this morning ready to buy a lot of the good things advertised at reduced prices.

In order that everybody in the world may know about these big values—if anybody was overlooked through the afternoon papers—we are reproducing the ad. (here to your right) just as it was printed in The Journal last evening. You can catch the big reductions at a glance—but remember, these unusual values are only for a day—just TODAY.

Had a fellow tell me 'tother day that he enjoyed trading at Rogers' because of the HIGH QUALITY goods he could always get, and because our big stock was made up largely of well-advertised, nationally known brands. He said that when a fellow rushed into SOME grocery stores and grabbed up things he didn't know nothin' about—some "off brands" of this or that in a can or carton, something the clerk insisted was "just as good"—it was just like eating chestnuts in the dark. Maybe you got what you wanted—and maybe you didn't. Mostly the latter. But at Rogers' it was different, he said, because you always knew what you were getting, and you could depend upon it. We thanked him.

Today you can smile a smile of satisfaction when a customer comes in and wants lettuce or celery—for we have loaded you up on those fine California products again—and at the same low prices of 9 cents—head or stalk.

And fellows, ain't that a humdinger price on pure lard? Think of buying it today for 13½¢ pound—or an 8-pound pail for $1.24. Put a sign up—let the people know about it.

And then there's grapefruit—3 for 21 cents—the fine, large Sealdsweet variety; and fine, firm tomatoes for 15¢ pound. We know you'll sell these without much coaxing.

Digressing a little bit—I ran into a party of Mah Jongg fans the other evening—and what wasn't Mah Jongg enthusiasts were radio bugs. Believe me, I soon got out o' there. You can imagine how out of place a fellow felt in that crowd who didn't know nothin' but English—and a limited amount at that.

And here's a tip for you—an ASPARAGUS TIP. See the price up there on Medium White Libby's or Del Monte's—a can of supreme goodness—reduced for today only from 45¢ to 38¢. I also direct your attention to the 2½¢ cans of Royal Anne Cherries—you know how excellent these are—reduced for today only from 49¢ to 33¢. Ain't that a big value? As also is whole sliced Pineapple—all 2½¢ cans reduced from 41¢ to 33¢ for today. You may have to rope these off, so you can hand 'em out in rotation. But do the best you can to satisfy the crowds.

Had a funny thing happen to me Friday morning as I was rushing down to the office to see what I could think up for you fellows. A neighbor came driving by the corner where I was standing, waiting to do my mite toward helping folks get a "livin' wage," and he picked me up. As he headed into Peachtree at Ponce de Leon I waved my hand at Henry Barnes going out Peachtree with a big load of fresh produce for one of our stores. My friend turned his head to see who I was waving at. B-a-n-g!—and he bumped slap bang into a dandy little Essex coach, doing right smart of damage. I said to myself: "Now, here's where Wyck Goldsmith will get to sell another one of those pretty coaches."

A lady was driving the Essex, and she got out and came back very mad and excited-like—and I didn't blame her, for it was my friend's fault, or maybe my fault, or maybe Henry's fault, for he started the accident—and she said to my friend:

"What's the matter with you? I was holding out my hand."

"Ah, but," said my quick-witted friend, "it was such a tiny little hand I didn't see it."

The lady apologized for getting in my friend's way, and we drove on happily ever afterward.

This matter of deliveries, as you boys know, is a big job for us fellows here at the warehouse. I say US fellows. Of course, I don't do no loading or driving of trucks—but I do what's write, and that helps some. But anyway, just as soon as the city and the county can blaze the extension of Madison avenue through from Peters street to Whitehall at the junction of Forsyth, it certainly will help us, and you managers, too, on deliveries. We can then shoot right through Madison avenue onto the Spring street viaduct and cover all that Marietta-Luckie street section in a jiffy. This is one big street improvement we feel cannot come too quickly, and it will soon pay for itself in increased property values all along the proposed new route.

Don't forget that today ends the big sale on Bullhead jelly at 3 glasses for 25c; on Octagon soap, 4 large cakes for 22c; on Maxwell House coffee at 36c; and on mackerel at 14c. These have been big sellers all week, but Monday they go back to regular prices.

Had lots and lots of folks to phone me and write me about the money I found, but none of them lost the amount, nor none at or near the place I found it. So I still got it—and the offer to return it is still open.

In closing let me say to—

Manager Boone, 923 Gordon St.: We would like for Mrs. John H. Hudson, 861 Gordon street, to try a can of our Del Monte fruit salad. If she visits your store today or Monday give her a can (any size you have) with our compliments.

Manager Jackson, 509 West Peachtree: I wonder if Mrs. M. E. Matthews, 590 W. Peachtree, knows how very delicious our Maraschino cherries are? To-day or Monday, if she comes into your store, give her a can with Rogers' compliments.

Well, boys, next week we've got something good for you. I hate to make you wait—but until then—

MEAT FOR HEALTH

Dishes Made From Inexpensive Mutton or Lamb Cuts.
Braised Neck Chops—Requires two pounds of lamb neck slices, two tablespoons flour, two tablespoons fat, one cup water for gravy, seasoning, salt, pepper, kitchen bouquet or Worcestershire sauce, one cup tomatoes, one sliced onion. Brown the neck slices in oven on both sides. Add the tomatoes and onion, and bake half an hour. Remove to hot platter, make the gravy, and pour over the meat.

Roast Breast of Lamb—Place the lamb in a roasting pan, cover it with strips of bacon, season with salt and pepper, add 1-2 cup water, cover and bake about 3-4 hour. Make a rich brown gravy from the juices left in the pan, by adding one tablespoon flour to each cup of liquid. To brown the potatoes, pare them, place around the lamb in the roasting pan when the meat is put in the oven, season them, and bake them once or twice with the juice. The breast of lamb may be stewed as well as roasted. The flavor is delicious, because of the large amount of extractives in the forequarter cuts. Lamb breast makes an especially delicious stew, since the fat is so tender and mild.

Mixed Lamb on Toast—Run leftover cooked lamb through the food chopper, sprinkle it with flour, and brown it in bacon fat. Sauté it slowly for fifteen minutes in brown gravy (if you have none, use a gravy made from two tablespoons fat and two of flour, browned, then thinned with 1-2 cups water). A small minced onion improves the flavor. Season with a little lemon juice, salt and pepper. Serve very hot on toast.

Mystic Ceremony Will Accompany China's New Year

Web of Orient To Enmesh
Atlanta on Anniversary of Ming Dynasty.

BY JOHN H. HEWLETT.

Monday marks the 556th anniversary of the Ming dynasty and is the Chinese New Year. Sunday night the town-ton will throw its monotonous staccato in Atlanta. Weird Oriental mandolins will shriek their eerie wails. Fantastic-colored lanterns will be lighted, and local celestials will rather at their temple at 171 South Forsyth street. The nasal salutations of "Kung-hi" and "Sin-hi" (I humbly wish you joy) will be the reigning greetings.

All things are prepared for the greatest feast on the Chinese calendar. Beginning today, lights will burn low and mysterious. The Occident will taste of the atmosphere of old dragons, mandarins and silk tapestries. Joss sticks will burn, and the sweet aroma of sandalwood will perfume the air.

Chen Yee, 14 years an Atlantan, will chant the nasal hymns of the Ming dynasty. Resplendent in the robes of his ancestors, he will offer up prayers to Confucius. Atlanta's colony of Chinamen will enjoy the chop-suey of a festival day. The din of the celebration will rise and fall on the air, and mah jongg will be played by the clever yellow men.

Red strips of paper with mottoes of wise Orientals of old, will be pasted over doors. On one large strip of silk will be written, "The best passport anywhere in China is to be an American," a tribute of the love of Atlanta's Chinese citizens for their adopted country.

DR. SNYDER HEADS M. E. EDUCATORS

Memphis, Tenn., February 1.—The Educational Association of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, adjourned today to meet again in February, 1925.

This was one of the most largely attended sessions and the best in its history. Dr. Henry N. Snyder, president of Wofford college, was elected president of the association for the coming year; Dr. J. R. Countiss, Grenada, Miss., vice president; Professor W. E. Hogan, secretary-treasurer.

A resolution coming from the group of annual conference secretaries, of which Dr. Elam F. Dempsey, Atlanta, Ga., was president, was adopted by the association, urging that a closer relationship between conference boards of education and the conference colleges be made. This is considered an important step forward, as the board of education is the nucleus between the college and its conference constituency. Dr. J. C. Baker, of Illinois university, was honor guest of the association. His address on religious work by denominations at tax supported institutions of learning was one of the features of the session. For 17 years he has been pastor of Trinity Methodist church, adjacent to the university campus, and he erected a parish house as a social center at a cost of more than $30,000, where hundreds of Methodist students are welcome. The Roman Catholics and Hebrews have similar foundations.

There is a growing movement in which the denominations are following their young people with service in these tax supported schools. The schools welcome it, and it is carefully guarded against any union of church and state association.

Vancouver, British Columbia.—Commencing with the first of this month, British Columbia's lumber industry resumed a more active stride and mills and logging camps are once again working steadily, following increased demand from eastern and middle west points, a decided upward tendency is noticeable in lumber prices, which is sending up the price of logs after a general easing downwards for the past several weeks.

An Aged Sinner.

Brother Johnson had labored through a long, perspiring evening to convince his colored congregation of the dreadful fate of those who remained unsaved.

He concluded, "And the wicked shall be cast into outer darkness; there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth." Old Sam Jackson rose from his seat, demanding: "What about me, Mr. Johnson? I ain't got no teeth." Leaning far over the pulpit and shaking a long, bony forefinger at the aged sinner, Brother Johnson said, tensely: "Never you mind, Mr. Jackson! Never you mind! Teeth will be provided!"—Everybody's Magazine.

Hangman's Noose Comes as Climax To Arctic Feud

Edmonton, Alta., February 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—White man's justice will write the final chapter in an arctic feud when two Eskimos feel the hangman's noose on Herschel Island, if the order of the Dominion courts is carried out.

Alk Oniak and Tetamangma of the Copper Eskimo tribe of Prince Albert Sound were to hang for the killing of Corporal Doak of the Royal Canadian mounted police, and Otto Binder, a white trader of Coronation Gulf.

It will be spring before confirmation of the executions can be received, for the only communication with Herschel Island is by courier. But authorities here and at Ottawa said the executions will go forward as planned.

There are some gaps in the story of the feud as available here, but the imonies at the trial of the convicted men shows that Otto Binder's fancy for a young Eskimo girl, desired in marriage by a member of her tribe, was the basic cause.

The feud culminated in the killing of the two white men, several Eskimos and women, and finally in the strangling of a four-year-old Eskimo girl, who was killed after the death of her parents, rather than have her left a charge on the tribe.

Corporal Doak was killed by Oniak when he arrested him for his part in the feud.

Oniak and his fellow tribesmen were tried before Judge Dubuc of the Alberta courts, a stipendiary magistrate of the northwest territory and a jury composed of steamboat men, trappers and traders—the trial taking place during July at the police barracks of the Arctic post.

Counsel for the men, sent from Winnipeg, said they did not deny the charge of the murder, but said the men were not yet ripe to try Eskimos in the same manner as white men, holding that the uncivilized Eskimo "is in the same condition as the early Briton of 2,000 years ago."

Three other members of the tribe also were tried. Ekootak, medicine woman and sorceress of the tribe, was found guilty of manslaughter and is serving a year's sentence at the Herschel Island post, while Oniak and Ameruk, males charged with killing a "bad Eskimo," were acquitted.

Findings of the island court were approved at Ottawa. Sergeant Thorne, veteran Arctic officer of the R. C. M. P., left Vancouver early in September for Herschel, bearing the death warrants. His 2,000-mile trip necessitated use of everything from steam boats to dog sled and canoe.

MAN WHO STOLE FORTUNE DRAWS TEN-YEAR TERM
New York, February 1.—Convicted by a jury of the theft of $103,000 in gold from the Guaranty Trust company of New York in 1922, Henry H. Werblow, former manager of the Asia Banking Corporation's branch at Peking, China, was sentenced today to Sing Sing prison for five to ten years.

Werblow and his brothers, Robert and Isaac—the latter still at large—were alleged to have conspired to rob the Guaranty Trust company of $150,000. Robert is held in $40,000 bail awaiting trial next Monday.

Most of the stolen gold was recovered.

CHALDEAN GRAVES YIELD TO SCIENCE

Philadelphia, February 1.—The first report of the joint expedition of the British Museum and the University of Pennsylvania in the work of excavating at Ur of the Chaldees in Mesopotamia during the present season was made public here and contains interesting and important archaeological information of the work being performed in the land where history dawned. The report was made by C. Leonard Woolley, director of the joint expedition.

The most laborious task, the report stated, was the clearing of the masses of debris surrounding the Ziggurat or stepped tower. The walls of the main structure, set up by Ur-Zugur, about 2300 B. C., are wonderfully well preserved. In the Mesopotamia there is no pre-Christian monument so imposing as the Ziggurat of Ur, the report stated.

Meanwhile, a smaller group of men has been employed at Tel-el-Obeid, a little mound some four and a half miles from the Ziggurat.

"For the first time we have been able to learn the real character of the site and recover in good condition some of the astonishing works of art which it conceals," said the report. "Up to the present two distinct parts of the site have been attacked, a cemetery and the building on which Dr. Hall worked. The graves are probably the earliest yet found in this country, dating from the fifth and early fourth millennia, B. C., and have yielded an embarrassing quantity of objects."

Still Used Stone.
"The people who were at least in part Sumerian, were still using many stone implements, but were none the less quite familiar with copper, and had developed great skill in hammering and casting the metal; but side by side with implements of flint and copper we find copies of the same in pottery, showing that with materials, being imported from a distance, were sufficiently valuable to make certain people grudge them to the dead."

"Pottery for the most part wheel-made, but hand-made wares had wholly disappeared and painted pottery recalling that found in the early strata of the ruins of Susa was in use at the beginning of the period, though it seems to have been ousted later by the plain types."

"The dead were laid sometimes at full length, sometimes in the contracted, or 'embryonic' position; many were in clay urns, oval or circular such as continued in use throughout all Babylonian history. Most of the bones had decayed away, but a side by side with implements of flint and copper we find copies of the same in pottery, showing that with materials, being imported from a distance, were sufficiently valuable to make certain people grudge them to the dead."

Longevity Shames Methuselah.
"The building lies close to the cemetery. On the top of the mound are the scanty remains of a temple put up by Dungi, the second king of the third dynasty of Ur, who reigned about 2250 B. C.; this replaced an earlier building which stood on a terrace platform of mud brick, a building about which we can only say that it quite probably dates to the second dynasty of Ur. Entirely buried below the terrace floor lies the building which Dr. Hall first discovered. A lucky chance has brought to light a tablet recording its foundation, and we learn that it was the temple of the Goddess Nin-Kharsag, set up by King A-An-Ni-Pad-Ia, son of King Mes-An-Ni-Pad-Ia, king of the first dynasty of Ur."

"The graves who soon after 2000 B. C. drew up a list of the kings of Sumer and Akkad have left it on record that the kings who reigned immediately after the flood were those of Kish and the years of their reigns would not Methuselah to shame a then came the second dynasty, that of Erioch, vitiated by the like incredible longevity, and third from the flood is put the dynasty of Ur. This dynasty, like the two that preceded it, has commonly been regarded as mythical. Its rulers were assigned no more than normal length of power, but nothing was known of them and they were merely names in a schematic list; a dead reckoning basis on the king lists would put their date somewhere about 4,000 B. C., and Sumerian history, properly speaking, could not be carried back much beyond 3,000 B. C. Tell-el-Obeid has produced not only the oldest dated document yet known, but a contemporary record proving the real existence of these shadowy kings."

Art Is Preserved.
"To this remote antiquity belong the remarkable series of objects of art which adorned its walls and have fortunately survived to the present day, embedded in the debris of the temple and hermetically sealed up below five or six feet of hardest mud brick I have ever encountered. Chief among them are a number of copper reliefs of cattle. The animals are represented as lying down, but almost in the act to rise, are 11 inches high and 22 inches in length, the heads cut out of thin copper plates, the bodies in low relief but the heads, turned to the front, stand out boldly in the round."

"Both technically and artistically the reliefs show a degree of excellence which would do credit to any age, and are quite amazing when one considers their actual date. Though the metal is completely oxidized and cracked into hundreds of pieces, it has been possible to remove the figures for the most part in good condition."

Temple Lavishly Decorated.
"These reliefs formed a frieze in the facade of the temple. Another frieze, on a rather smaller scale, was composed of figures of men and oxen carved in fine white stone and silhouetted against a background of black paste; the whole framed in copper; yet another showed birds, similarly treated in black and white. One part of the building was decorated with copper statues of bulls in the round, a little over two feet high. One naturally supposed that copper, imported as it had to be from a great distance, was a rarity in days when flints were still the common use; but the wealth of the metal lavished on this little temple is astonishing. Work is still going on at this venerable treasure house of ancient monuments and further finds are to be expected, while a great deal should be learned about the style of architecture and the distribution of ornament employed under the first dynasty of Ur. But already in a short space we have recovered more than the most optimistic could have hoped to find in a season."

CHINESE-KILLER BREAKS TONG LAW

San Francisco, Cal., February 1.—The law of the Chinese tongs, that a highlander must take his own medicine with his mouth shut if he is caught, has been violated by a Chinaman face to face with death.

For the first time in history, it was revealed here by J. M. Kirkley, chief of police of Reno, Nevada, a highlander, one Huggie Sing, has "peached" on his fellow tongmen to save his own neck.

Sing, with Gee Jon, was sentenced in Carson City, Nevada, to die in the federal gas chamber for the murder of Tom Quong, Chinese laundryman, during a tong flare at Mina, Nevada. Last Saturday the state pardon board at Carson City refused to commute the sentence of Gee Jon, but saved Sing from the gas chamber and commuted his punishment to life imprisonment. According to Kirkley, Sing confessed not only that Gee Jon actually fired the shot that killed Quong, but that Gee Wing Fong, former manager of the Alturas cafe in Reno, and now serving a two-year sentence in Leavenworth penitentiary for smuggling narcotics, hired him and Jon to go to Mina and kill Quong.

Jon now must face death alone in the gas chamber being built and into which deadly hydrocyanic gas will be forced February 8.

Strain on Banks and Farms May Cause Political Upset

Some Fear Expressed
That Acute Local Conditions
in Northwest May Spread to Other Sections.

Washington, February 1.—The local banking strain and the acute hardships in some northwestern states have caused intense interest in Washington. While nothing similar to it is threatened in any other part of the country, it is looked upon as a thing to be guarded against. Friends of the administration recognize this as the sort of thing which, if it is not prevented from spreading, might become the determining factor in the election next year. Except for the fact that it is local, and except for the fact that there is apparently no likelihood of its spreading or reaching a point where it should spread, it is the kind of condition which gave W. J. Bryan his impetus in 1896.

One minor political result of it was forecast already to the writer by a citizen of South Dakota who was in Washington today on an errand of relief for his community from the government. He said that up to the time of these bank failures, Coolidge had seven out of ten chances to carry the South Dakota primary against Johnson on March 18. But if the present economic condition there should continue, the political disturbance accompanying it might lead to almost anything.

Keep Money in Homes.
Distrust in even the sound banks is such that people are withdrawing their money and keeping it in their pockets; yet which, if it should run on without cure, would lead practically to the suspension of all business done on credit. As to the causes, the farmers and other people who are not wholly without blame themselves. A well informed citizen of South Dakota told the writer before the situation arose still according to his figures the people of that state had been spending about $50,000,000 a year on automobiles, gasoline, and other expenses incident to the automobile; whereas the volume of the entire wheat crop of the state is only about $20,000,000. Another condition, which is not merely looked to South Dakota, but contains the same menace for the country as a whole, is the widespread use of the system of installment payments used by manufacturers and dealers in many commodities in order to stimulate their sales excessively. It has been computed that the earnings of entire communities are mortgaged many months and even years in advance. The interest rates ultimately paid by the consumer of some of these commodities sold on installments run as high as a minimum of 18 per cent a year. In this case the fault lies both with the seller, for the excessive zeal which leads him to stimulate sales beyond the capacity of the buyer to pay, and also on the buyer for his unwillingness to wait for his luxury until after he has actually saved the cash to buy it.

Some Blame Banks.
Some well informed Washington observers put some of the fault on the local bankers. According to a statement made here, there is in North Dakota one bank for every 500 people, and in South Dakota one bank for every 700 persons. It is obvious that banks with so small an average clientele must have an excessive overhead and cannot do business profitably unless they charge excessive interest and discounts. Moreover, some local bankers, instead of using their surplus money to guard the interests of their depositors, have actually been in league with some of the salesmen of "blue sky" securities, into which the farmers put much of their savings when they were prosperous. Some of the present condition is a delayed aftermath of the conditions of 1919.

In 1919, when the value of corn went from a dollar a bushel to below 25 cents a bushel, many of the banks found their collateral less than equal to the amount they had loaned. They then pressed the farmer to give them additional security in the shape of first or second mortgages on his land. It is the inability to liquidate these mortgages on land that brought down one fairly large bank and started the chain of smaller failures. Part of the acuteness of the present situation as reported in Washington is that some Chicago bankers seem to have been infected by the same spirit of apprehension.

The other prisoners are George Anderson, partner of Gerald Chapman, million-dollar mail bandit, who escaped in 1923, and Frank Haynes and Ludwig Schmidt, two patients of the prison tuberculosis camp. It was from their tubercular tent that the 60-foot tunnel was dug to freedom.

Friday night federal prison officials had received no official notification of Lepper's capture.

Students in Tech Evening School Will Use Slides

The principles of advertising design will be illustrated by the use of stereoscopic slides in the Tech evening school of commerce class in advertising during the evening beginning Monday night. A series of practical problems will be worked out by each student, to be criticised personally and in class.

Registration for the advertising class, as well as for new classes in accounting, commercial law, law of real estate and bookkeeping, can be made at the downtown classrooms, 28 Auburn avenue, any evening.

A Wolf Scare.

(From Everybody's Magazine.)
Down in the Ozark country where slow thinking is a tradition with the natives, Jed Pollock held the reputation of being the best dressed and most moral in the world. One night a neighbor dropped into Jed's farmhouse and informed him that he had just come upon a bear near one of the cows. Jed seated himself on the kitchen doorstep and proceeded to think the matter over. At last he called to one of his lengthy sons: "Bud," he said, "ye'd better go take a look at that cow an' ef she's hurt very bad, ye'd better shoot her."

Cleaning Her Fingernails.

(From Everybody's Magazine.)
Mother (assuming her best before-company manner and a precious lamb): "Hasn't mother told you that you must not bite your fingernails? Precious Lamb: 'I'm not, mother. I'm just getting the dirt out. —Everybody's Magazine."

A Bit Foggy.

The old gentleman was lost in a London fog so thick that he could scarcely see his hand before his face. He became seriously alarmed when he found himself in a alley alley. Then he heard footsteps approaching. "Where am I going?" he asked anxiously. A voice replied weirdly from the darkness: "Into the river. I've just come out."

'SCOFFLAW' SETS EXPERTS HURLING EPITHETIC MUSS

BY RODNEY F. DUTCHER.

Saugatuck, Conn., February 1.—That innocent little word "Scofflaw" which New England prohibitionists picked to shame a nation into complete sobriety, may not have been such a devastating epithet in itself, but it opened the way for a hot and heavy flareback from the opposition.

Within the next few days anyone who calls a violator of the Volstead act a "scofflaw" may expect to have fired right back at him such a strange and unique term as "snivelpest," "burmint," "messyfoot" or "pester-priz."

The mail into Saugatuck is becoming almost as large as that of Bridgeport and all Saugatuck is writing its congressman for a new postoffice. Most all the letters and postcards, however, are addressed to Mrs. Rose R. Scott, who recently offered a prize of $100 from out of her life savings for the new word which she hopes will go into the dictionaries as "scofflaw's antithesis."

Grows Worse and Worse.

"Pharisee," "verbotenrat," "dry-rotter," "slavesheart," "sobrighter," "farcel," "liberticide," "sneerlip," "soulsaver," "tabooster" and "rights-thief," in addition to those previously named, are some of the suggestions of those who became stirred up when the United News told about the prize offered by Mrs. Scott.

Or, if you don't think any of these colorful appellations would have any effect on your neighborhood snooper, try "purinitic," "contralib," "buttin-bully," "diwlaw," "rabidist," "mal-truist," "curball," or "holiboss."

Professor Into Mele.

A Princeton professor has jumped into a place among the leaders with "censormania," while an alienist says that "symania" and other developments of the war were forerunners of a wave of postwar bigotry and offers "prosiocrite."

Mrs. Scott, who wants it again made plain that she "never drinks anything stronger than wholesome beer," has no political ambitions, is opposed to saloons and hard liquor, and favors temperance, says the contest will close March 10 and that all letters postmarked on or before that date will be turned over to a committee of journalists and authors yet to be selected, who will act as judges.

ATLANTANS TO HEAR SOUSA'S GREAT BAND

Sousa's Band, with the world famous John Philip Sousa, himself, conducting, will give two concerts at the auditorium Wednesday, February 27, it was announced Saturday.

In addition to the band, which numbers eighty-five pieces, and which is the largest professional band in the country, will be a number of soloists and others who will bring the number of the party well over one hundred.

John Philip Sousa endeared himself to Atlantans during the old Cotton States exposition, at Piedmont Park, where he played, and where he presented for the first time his "King Cotton March" in honor of the state of Georgia. He has visited Atlanta many times since that time, his last visit only two years ago when he played to enormous audiences at the auditorium in two performances.

Mr. Sousa will conduct the two performances which his band will give in Atlanta, following his invariable rule. No one else ever conducts a public performance of his band, and on the rare occasions when it is impossible for him to personally conduct a performance, no performance is given.

The soloists who will be with the band this year are Miss Nora Fauchaud, soprano; John Dolan, famous cornetist; Miss Rachel Senior, violinist; George Carey, euphonist; Miss Winifred Hambrick, harpist, and Meredith Wilson, flutist.

R. E. Carroll investigated the case. Hendricks, it is said, was shooting at C. D. Fitzgerald, attorney, who offices at 209 Kiser building. The lawyer told the police that he had received a telephone call to come to 233 Chapel street to "get a case," and that he was fired upon as he stepped from his auto.

Fitzgerald told the police that he turned and chased the negro some distance, being forced to hide behind a house when the negro turned and leveled his pistol at him, as if to shoot again.

The negro was seeking revenge for a caustic letter the attorney said he had written him regarding a bill he owed the A. S. Jones Furniture company, 357 Peters street. In this letter Attorney Fitzgerald says he threatened garnishment of the negro's wages unless a payment was made. At the time he was shot down Richmond was sweeping the sidewalk in front of his store.

Whale Meat Again Popular.

Vancouver, B. C.—After being practically off the market for some time canned whale steak is again becoming popular. The demand for this product is reported to be so great that the pack now being prepared was disposed of some considerable time ago. Practically all the British Columbia pack of whale meat is being shipped to England for redistribution abroad.

LOSS OF $347,981,491 IN GARNER TAX PLAN

Washington, February 1.—The government would suffer a loss of $347,981,491 in revenue with a reduction of taxes as suggested by the democratic plan, Secretary Mellon informed Representative Garner, authority of the democratic scheme, without comment, in estimates submitted today.

OFFICERS ELECTED IN WARE RUN-OVER

Waycross, Ga., February 1.—(Special.)—Official returns in Thursday's run-off primary for Ware county offices showed that Lloyd C. Warren had overwhelmingly defeated former Mayor Dan T. Cowart for the office of sheriff of Ware county, receiving 1,750 votes against Mr. Cowart's 830. Crawford D. Jordan was elected tax collector, defeating H. J. Benton by a majority of 427 votes. W. King Powell was elected tax receiver, and Ralph C. Cavender county school superintendent.

Ponzi Investors Must Return Sums That They Saved

Boston, February 1.—Federal Judge Anderson ruled today that investors in Charles Ponzi's postal reply coupon scheme, who withdrew both principal and interest on their investments must be treated as preferential creditors and must return to the bankrupt Ponzi estate all the money which they withdrew.

FOUR DIE IN FLAMES OF EAST AKRON HOME

Akron, Ohio, February 1.—Four persons, a mother and three children, were burned to death and a fourth seriously injured early today when fire destroyed a home in east Akron. The dead are Mrs. Arthur Smith, 22; Anne, 3; Kathleen, 2, and Arthur, 10 months old. David Haynes, a brother of Mrs. Smith, is in City hospital suffering from serious burns. All were trapped in their beds when the house caught fire. Haynes attempted an unsuccessful effort to save his sister and her children.

N. Y. C. GRANTS HIKE IN WAGES

New York, February 1.—The New York Central railroad announced today that it had agreed with leaders of the "big four" unions to grant conductors and trainmen wage increases upon the same terms as were granted engineers and firemen last January 22.

The engineers and firemen received increases averaging 5 per cent, and railroad officials made plain that a similar increase would be given the conductors and trainmen. A further conference for completing details in agreements for the New York Central system's 17 subsidiary lines will be held here next Tuesday. E. L. Sheppard will appear for the conductors and W. N. Doak for the trainmen.

Unions representing the four branches of the service had asked for the return of wage scales prevailing in 1920, which would have represented an average increase of about 20 per cent over the prevailing schedules. FURTHER INCREASES TO BE SOUGHT. Cleveland, Ohio, February 1.—The executive committee of the eastern, western and southern associations of the brotherhood of railroad trainmen and the order of railway conductors have been called to meet here next Monday at the request of W. N. Doak, vice president of the trainmen and L. E. Sheppard, president of the conductors, who have been negotiating with the New York Central for wage increases for members of the two organizations. W. G. Lee, president of the trainmen announced late today.

FIVE LOST IN WRECK OF RIVER STEAMER

Paducah, Ky., February 1.—Two passengers and three negro deck hands were missing today as a result of the wreck of the river steamer Thomas C. Powell in the Ohio river at a point near Wilson's Light, eight miles from here, last night. Survivors of the wreck landed here and expressed the belief that those missing were trapped below by an onrush of water or pinned by shifting freight when the boat listed. Shepherd Green, captain and pilot of the Powell, said the boat struck a sunken obstruction while moving in mid channel and sank within three minutes. As soon as he felt the blow, Captain Green turned the steamer and ran for a submerged bar. The boat grounded, with only three on deck and the top of the pilot house above water. The survivors found temporary refuge on the Texas deck and later some of them were moved ashore in the boat's yawls.

Mrs. Mary McReynolds, of East St. Louis, the only woman passenger, was rescued with difficulty after shifting freight had pinned her against the side of a cabin. All lights on board were extinguished with the exception of a single oil lantern and it was by this dim flame that Captain Green and helpers broke through the floor of the Texas deck to rescue Engineer W. E. Emberton, a helper and a passenger who were imprisoned below. The trio were in imminent danger from rising water. The boat is believed to have struck a large ice floe. The cause of the blow and the subsequent list to starboard was so great that one man was thrown through a window and wounded.

The missing passengers were named Brewer and Turner and lived in the vicinity of Sugar Grove, Ky. The dense fog and presence of ice in the river added to the difficulty of the rescue work. A check of survivors after their arrival here was followed by the announcement that five were missing.

The Powell was en route to Nashville, Tenn., and carried 33 passengers and a crew of 17, including deck hands.

SONGSTERS OF EMORY BEGIN SECOND TOUR

Emory University, Ga., February 1.—Emory's glee club will leave Atlanta Saturday morning for the second of its series of winter tours. In four states engagements for eight performances have been made.

The club has been recently rearranged and additions have been made since its last appearance. The old stars, O'Steen and Procter, will be present in addition to Lagomarsino, a new man who makes a hit as a comedian singer. Over 40 men will be included in the personnel of the club and orchestra who will make the trip.

A feature of the program is a humorous play, "Charlie's Aunt," which has been revised and abridged by Rankin Mansfield, dramatic coach. Another offering is "The Sea Gypsy," composed by John Pearce and dedicated to the Emory Glee club, of which he is a former member. The schedule for the present trip is as follows: February 2, Athens, Ga.; Colonial theater; February 4, Elberton, Ga.; high school auditorium; February 5, Greenwood, S. C.; Lander college; February 6, Greenville, S. C.; Greenville Woman's college; February 7, Greensboro, N. C.; North Carolina college for women; February 8, Danville, Va.; Randolph-Macon institute; February 9, Staunton, S. C.; Staunton college; February 11, Gainesville, Ga.; Brenau college. Members of the glee club and orchestra who will make the trip are: Dr. M. H. Dewey, director; Alton O'Steen, president; Clarence Sharpe, vice president; Charles Hurt, secretary; Raymond Nixon, manager; Ed. C. Bruce, Jr., assistant manager. First Tenor: Tiger James, Edwin Sharpe, Ray Peacock, Joe Mosley and Wendell Whipple. Second Tenor: Clarence Sharpe, Charles Hurt, Cecil Bowers, Adrien Serna and Tom Chalker. First Bass: G. C. Baker, James P. Styles, B. K. Bihrey, Ernest Harstock and John Chandler. Second Bass: Hunt Clement, Kinchley McBride, William Harbin, Robert Henry, John Chalker and Edgar Boling. Orchestra: Violins, Sam Procter, William Harbin, Van Ferguson and Adrien Serna; Clarinet, Jagoe Hunt; cello, Lester Harbin; bass, Ellis Hale; flute, Sidney Kennedy; drums and cymbals, Hunt Clement; and Chas. Lagomarsino; cornet, Edwin Jones; trombone, Joe Turner.

MINERS WILL RETAIN KU KLUX KLAN CLAUSE

Indianapolis, February 1.—Delegates to the biennial convention of the United Mines Workers voted overwhelmingly today in favor of the proposal of the scale committee that a four-year wage agreement be sought when the miners' and operators' representatives meet at Jacksonville, Fla., on February 11. Attempts to strike out the ban against the Ku Klux Klan from the constitution of the mine workers and substitute a blanket clause against "any organization whose principles are detrimental to the United States government or the United Mine Workers," lost by a large majority.

Slayers Kidnap Prison Wardens And Make Escape

Little Rock, Ark., February 1.—Emory Council, Joe Sullivan, convicted of murder in connection with the slaying of two Little Rock detectives, and Eulos Sullivan, under sentence to be electrocuted February 15 for the killing of J. Walter Casey, a deputy United States marshal, escaped from death cells at the Arkansas penitentiary here today by holding up Warden Martin, prison warden, and his nephew, R. M. Haskins, of Kansas City, when Martin and Haskins went to the men's cells with their breakfast.

When Warden Martin and Haskins appeared at the death cells they were covered with automatic pistols in the hands of the three prisoners, who previously had held up an armed guard and locked him in a cell.

Haskins was locked in a cell and the prison force was sent to his automobile, a curtained touring car parked in the prison yard. The three men got in the rear seat and keeping the warden covered with their weapons forced him to drive through the prison gate where he was permitted to pass readily by a trusty guard on duty who recognized him but could not see the men crouching in the rear compartment of the car. Forcing the warden to drive them a mile from the prison toward the city, the three men put him out of the car and sped on toward the business section. Warden Martin gave the alarm as soon as he could reach a telephone and every available police officer and deputy sheriff was sent to patrol roads leading out of the city.

Connell and Joe Sullivan also were sentenced to be electrocuted but their execution was stayed by an appeal from the trial court which still is pending. The state affirmed the conviction of Eulos Sullivan, several months ago and denied a rehearing. The two Sullivans are not related. Connell's home is in Wisconsin. Joe Sullivan is from Kansas and Eulos Sullivan, Oklahoma.

WEALTHY OIL MAN ACCUSED OF USING MAIL TO DEFRAUD

St. Louis, February 1.—William Sacks, wealthy oil operator, who was defeated for the republican senatorial nomination in Missouri last year, was rendered to federal authorities this afternoon to answer a charge of using the mails to defraud pending against him at Indianapolis. He was released under $7,500 bond to appear for arraignment in Indianapolis Monday. Mr. Sacks is well known in Texas and Oklahoma. He was one of 19 men indicted in Indianapolis recently following an investigation of the operation of housing trusts. Mr. Sacks formerly was trustee and half owner of the United Home Builders of America, a 3 per cent housing trust, which had offices here, but which were moved to Portland, Ore., following its sale to Morton S. Hawkins, who also was among those indicted.

PUBLISHER'S SON GRANTED DIVORCE

Detroit, Mich., February 1.—James E. Scripps, son of William E. Scripps, Detroit publisher, was granted a divorce today from Ruth Maude Scripps, former dancing teacher. The decree, handed down by Circuit Judge McQuinn, was awarded on Scripps' cross bill to his wife's petition for a limited divorce. The cross bill charged extreme cruelty.

SPEEDY JUSTICE METED TO KILLER

Grand Forks, N. D., February 1.—Swift retribution overtook Theodore Larson, slayer of four members of his family.

Within 24 hours after the crime a posse caught him and hurried him before a judge to avoid lynching. Larson appeared thoroughly cowed after his capture, and pleaded guilty to four charges of first-degree murder. Judge Cooley sentenced him immediately to life imprisonment on each count. The terms are to run concurrently.

He appeared near prostration when the count embodying murder of his wife was read.

Larson argued with his wife about possession of their 4-year-old daughter, and went to the home of her father, S. S. Quanebeck, yesterday, to claim the child. When refused, Larson killed his wife, her two sisters, Helen and Emma Quanebeck, and Olaf Arneson, husband of another sister.

Larson then dragged the bodies into the house, poured kerosene over them, and set them afire. The fire was extinguished by a neighbor.

Taking the little girl with him on horseback, Larson rode to a farm house near McVey. They had received word of the crime and disarmed Larson, holding him for a posse of 25 men, who were close behind.

Taken to Grand Forks, Larson pleaded guilty when arraigned and was taken to Grand Forks before district court. He again pleaded guilty, making a full breast of the crime, and was on his way to prison tonight.

WAR BREAKS OUT IN GIRL COLLEGE OVER SHORN HAIR

Whenton, Ill., February 1.—The girls at Whenton college are split into wigs and no wig camps.

The ancient question of long hair or short, to a head again.

The wigs, progressive as ever, are adamant to diminish the fight and to refuse to speak to the radicalized radicals. This action followed a debate and a series of letters in the student paper, a heat of exchange of views.

"Silent wigs" make our hair grow," declared the bobbed brigade.

Yankee Players Mailed Contracts

New York, February 1.—All the world's champion New York Yankees except Babe Ruth were mailed 1924 contracts today by Secretary Ewing.

It was understood that only one provided for an increase. Ruth has a five-year contract and Aaron Ward, second baseman, gets the boost. If Joe Dugan's knee has fully recovered when the season begins it was indicated the third baseman's contract would be revised.

Oppose Move.

St. Louis, February 1.—Many St. Louis golfers say they oppose the plan of the United States Golf association to diminish the flight and power of the ball by decreasing the weight and increasing the size. Many of the more prominent local golfers expressed the opinion that this might produce a "feater."

Will Sell Stable.

Cincinnati, February 1.—Emil Herz, widely known horseman, has announced here last night that he has decided to sell out the Short Grass Stud Corporation and retire from the breeding game. The sale, which will be held the latter part of February, Mr. Herz said, will include all of the thoroughbred breeding stock as well as the farm.

AFTER ARMAGEDDON, WHAT THEN?

Mr. C. A. Wise, vice president of the International Bible Students' association, will address local Bible students and their friends at the Bible Students' hall, 1045 E. Alabama street, at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night on the subject: After Armageddon, What Then?

Mr. Wise states he will call attention to the prophecies of the Scriptures showing that the greatest crisis of the ages is upon the nations of earth. It therefore becomes the duty of all Christians to sound the alarm. Concerning this day Jehovah said: Sound an alarm . . . let all the inhabitants of the land tremble; for the day of the Lord . . . is nigh at hand (Joel 2:1). It is likewise important to point the people to the Divine solution of the world's perplexing problems. Why in this period of the world's greatest enlightenment, do we find the people in such distress and perplexity?

Jehovah, through His prophet answers, "Come near, ye nations, to hear; and hearken ye people: that the earth hear and all that is therein; the world and all things that come forth of it. For the indignation of the Lord is upon all nations, and he has gathered them to fight against them: for it is the day of the Lord's vengeance and the year of the recompenses for the controversy of Zion" (Isaiah 64:1, 2).

Why God's indignation? With the whole world reeling and fro like a drunken man, is it not time for sober-minded persons to pause and inquire the reason why and to ascertain if there is a remedy for this present condition of distress and perplexity? Of whom shall we inquire? you may ask. I answer, Let the people inquire of the Lord through His inspired prophets as recorded in His Word—the Bible.

This lecture will be free and no collection taken.—(adv.)

Private Watch Over "Chief."

Four private soldiers, in uniform, kept a voluntary vigil in front of the Wilson doorsteps.

"We fought under him in France and we want to be with him until the end," one of them said. They stood in the cold for hours, went away long enough to eat, and came back to stand through the night.

Heart of Lover of Mankind Pulsed in Breast of Wilson

WASHINGTON, February 1.—The two classes of humble workers who have formed almost the sole connecting link between Woodrow Wilson and the people in the secluded days since he left the White House are recalling their experiences with America's stricken war president. These are the boys on the "rubber neck wagons" and the attendants at his favorite theater.

Wized "Johnny" Cook, veteran "spider," and "Chaplin" 17, who tells visitors to the capital of the wonders of the American capital, a cockney dialect, and all the others lowered their voices as they passed the Wilson home Friday.

The "spider" where everybody wants to go. Johnny said, squinting from behind his steel-rimmed spectacles, "I've wanted to see where Wilson lived, when he of them boys by 'give a thin dime to go to the White House."

"Greatest President."

Johnny has been on the "wagon" for 15 years, "Chaplin" 17. Both have seen many prominent men come and go. None has ever been such a "drawing card" as Wilson, Johnny thinks there's no one like the ex-president. He says so with many faltering phrases, when his bus passes the house on S street. Taking off his hat majestically, and raising his right foot six to its limit, he introduces the visitors to the "greatest president we ever had."

There were anxious inquiries from the boys at Keitz's vaudeville theater Friday. Wilson was perhaps the greatest theatergoer of all the presidents.

"Mr. Wilson liked a joke better than anything else," Roland Robbins, manager of the theater, said. "And he was always ready to swap a joke. He liked the monologues and bright, snappy songs. In fact, what he seemed to like best was lots of life."

It was at the theater where Wilson came into close contact with the people. Great crowds collected outside to watch him step into his large open car, and loud cheers arose as it rolled away. Wilson always acknowledged the applause, raising his hat with his feeble arm, almost mechanically, and smiling.

He always raised his hat when the eight o'clock train arrived, for he was going for his afternoon ride. One of the trips nearly always made this connection.

"Will we see Wilson?" is the question always asked as the tourists approach the rubberneck stands. Those who write in beforehand to sight-see the nation's president, raising his hat with his feeble arm, almost mechanically, and smiling.

MADDOO IN DENIAL OF LEASE CONNECTION

unally. He came to California in March, 1922, he said. In conclusion he stated "the employment of former firm and myself by these (Doherty) companies has extended over the past four years."

Off for Washington.

Mr. McDoo's telegram to Senator Walsh quoted the statement he already had issued relative to E. L. Doherty's testimony as to Mr. McDoo's legal relation with the Doherty companies. In conclusion he stated that he was leaving for Washington tomorrow on account of the illness of his father-in-law, Woodrow Wilson, and hoped he would be able to testify at the senatorial investigation and asked the senator to make arrangements for his appearance.

Mr. and Mrs. McDoo earlier today had planned to depart for the national capital tonight, but found that they could not arrange to leave until the morning.

Mr. McDoo's statement follows: The dragging of my name into this investigation of oil leases at Washington is wholly without justification of any sort. In 1919, a year after leaving President Wilson's cabinet, my former law firm in New York, McDoo, Cotton & Franklin, was retained as counsel by Mr. Doherty's companies and upon my removal to California in 1922 I was retained as special counsel here, such employment being entirely in connection with the Mexican affairs of Mr. Doherty's enterprises.

I have never at any time been employed or consulted regarding any oil leases anywhere in the United States. When Mr. Doherty sought the services of McDoo, Cotton & Franklin in New York in 1919, it was represented to us that under article 27 of the new Mexican constitution (against which our government had filed a protest on its adoption some years before), an attempt was being made to confiscate the valuable properties of Mr. Doherty's companies in Mexico.

Matter of Business.

"The members of my firm, after consideration of the matter, concluded that the case was meritorious. We accepted it, did all that we properly could for our client over a period of about two years and the firm received a fee of $100,000 for the service, a sum commensurate with the very large interests involved."

"When I moved to California in March, 1922, Mr. Doherty said that his companies would be glad to retain me as special counsel to act in an advisory capacity here."

I regarded the Doherty companies as the outstanding independent oil companies in the country and felt perfectly free to act as counsel for them. My counsel and advice have been confined to the purely technical problems with which these companies are constantly faced.

"For the period I have acted as special counsel here I have received an annual retainer of $25,000, payable semi-annually. The employment of my former firm and myself by these companies has extended over the past four years."

Wrestling Rests in Muldoon's Hands

New York, February 1.—Unless William Muldoon, the one monarch who came back to the ring, his objections to the wrestling business, the world champion, Ed Strangler Lewis, will go through a no-challenge defense.

Strangler has been matched with somebody named Pat McGill, described as an Irish giant from Nebraska.

The accomplishment of the bout itself will depend on the state of William Muldoon's mind. When he is the champion of the state, the commission he is not only forbidden wrestling, but also declared Jack Curley unconstitutional and refused to let him operate around New York.

As soon as Muldoon retired Curley emitted shrill bird-like cheers and raced up to the commission offices, where the holdover members were slow to give him a license. Now, however, Muldoon has been returned to the throne after a slight interregnum, during which a soviet or council administered the affairs of state.

Altogether, Mr. Curley's show will evince about two tons of beef and he promises that it will all be strictly fresh. If this promise is observed, Mr. Muldoon may not object to future wrestling matches. But his rest, however, is said to have been grievously affronted in times past by the rank bouquet given off by some exhibitions of beef, which was not altogether to his liking.

Strangler Lewis has not wrestled in New York for almost three years, and some of the local citizenry were much surprised to learn that he was still champion.

Woodall and Morris, for Tech High, did practically all of their scoring, tossing 12 and 11 points respectively.

For the freshmen the scoring was evenly divided.

The Line-up.

FRESHMEN. Tech High: Johnson (4), Woodall (12), Andrews (4), Van Houten (6), Turner (3), Morris (11), Kain (2), George (6), Brant (2).

Subs: Tech High: Brant (2) for Van Houten; Latimer for Van Houten; Freshmen: Jones for Turner; Aronovich (4) for Johnson; Turner for Kain; Johnson for Andrews.

DAVE SHADE TO MEET BILLY WELLS SOON

St. Paul, Minn., February 1.—Dave Shade, of California, and Billy Wells, who claims the welterweight championship of England, have been matched for a ten-round bout at the St. Paul auditorium on February 8.

Girls at Cornell university have banded together and refused to permit drinking at any social gathering at the university. Any violator of this rule will be boycotted.

Defense Begins In Jackson Case

Milwaukee, February 1.—Close of the fifth day of the trial in circuit court here of the case of Joe Jackson, former White Sox baseball player, suing the Chicago American league club for $18,500 as salary under an alleged breach of contract, brought about close of the plaintiff's direct testimony and he rested his case.

The defense will begin taking testimony tomorrow.

Fred Luderus, former first baseman for the Philadelphia Nationals, and now manager of the Oklahoma City team of the Western league, was the final witness for Jackson on direct examination, having been called as an expert to give his opinion of Jackson's work in the 1919 world series, which, it is alleged, was thrown by a number of White Sox players to the Cincinnati Reds.

He testified the playing of Jackson was good and that the letter by handy stick work sent in six Sox runners to the home plate, or one third of the runs scored by the White Sox during the series.

John Heydler, president of the National league, was the only witness during the afternoon. He confirmed the testimony of Charles A. Connelley, who called him into evidence, that the latter called him into conference concerning the rumored throwing of the series.

The special committee conferred with Chairman Mason, of the county executive committee, shortly after adoption of the recommendation, Mr. Mason agreed to call a meeting of the executive body to decide whether or not the referendum would be placed on the ballot.

The plan, as expressed by the committee, is to test the desires of the taxpayers. If they express themselves as opposed to the fee system, the county commissioners will set salaries for the newly-elected officers.

Wrong in Principle.

"The fee system is wrong in principle," Chairman Johnson, of the board of county commissioners, stated, "and I favor its abolition. As a county commissioner, I am perfectly willing to assume responsibility for fixing salaries of county officials. However, I favor good, substantial salaries in order to attract men to the offices who are fully qualified to protect public interests. I trust the executive committee will give the people a chance to express themselves."

In place of Funk, who was high scorer of the Western Conference last year, Coach Sam Barry will probably use "Ching" Duhm of Sterling, Ill. Duhm is a capable substitute but cannot hope to equal the performances of Funk. He lacks experience but has an abundance of fight and a willingness to work. It is a question whether Coach Barry can mould him into the team-play in the few days remaining before the game.

Chicago, now tied for second place in the conference race, will come out of the gate knowing that they have won but few games on the Hawkeye floor. It has been an Iowa tradition that no matter what kind of a team Iowa has, Chicago will fall before it. Coach Barry's men will stage a desperate fight to uphold that tradition, and incidentally climb out of their unsatisfactory slump in the conference standing.

Favor Salaries.

A number of new candidates have openly pledged themselves, if elected, to take from their fee collection salaries definitely named by them, and to turn the remainder into the county treasury. Practically every officer has declared himself and who is in favor of the move or unopposed to its movement to place the county officers on a salary basis.

Development in political circles following the action of the grand jury are scheduled to come in early order, and interest of voters in the fight on the fee system, indicated that they will be awaited with keen anticipation.

BRITAIN RECOGNIZES SOVIET RUSSIA

James O'Grady, a laborite who has had frequent contact with Russian affairs, will be British ambassador to Russia.

Russian circles assume that Christian Georgeyevich Rakovsky, who was a member of the Russian delegation to the Genoa conference, and who is now in London, will be Russian ambassador here.

New Era In Ambassadors.

It will be a remarkable change of ambassadors. O'Grady has been a labor member of parliament for the southeast division of Leeds since 1915, and was elected to the office of the National Federation of General Workers.

Between 1915 and 1918 he was with the British, French, Russian and American troops on various war fronts. In the spring of 1917 he was sent to Russia on a special mission to the Genoa conference, and in 1919 he was sent to Copenhagen to negotiate the exchange of political prisoners of war in Russia and the liberation of all British civilians there.

If he goes to Russia as ambassador he will probably occupy the impressive building in Moscow. The old British embassy was in Petrograd now Leningrad, and no longer the center of Russian life.

Was Boy Revolutionary.

Rakovsky comes of a family famous in Bulgarian revolutionary history. He was born in 1873. While still only a boy he was expelled from school for organizing a group of revolutionary students. Compelled to flee to western Europe, he studied at universities in Switzerland, Germany and France, generally under police espionage.

His arrest in 1907 by the Rumanian government was the cause of serious riots in which fifty police and workers were killed. When the Rumanian government attempted to deport him, workers tore up the railway tracks in front of his train.

The outbreak of the 1917 revolution in Russia found Rakovsky again in Rumanian prison, from which he was liberated by the local Russian garrison as part of their riotous May day celebrations. He then went to Russia and became an active participant in the revolution in the Ukraine. In 1919 he was elected first president of the Ukrainian soviet republic.

If he comes to London he will appear at state functions in the new uniform of soviet diplomats, lavender knee breeches, dark coat, green vest and a Turkish fez.

No Such Thing as Grudge Fight Says Rickard

Thinks Good Fellowship Between Two Principals Good for the Promoters

BY TEX RICKARD.

It was in the Reno fight between Jeffries and Johnson that I began to learn the basic principles of promoting, of making a big affair like that successful.

An editor in the west has written to ask me if I ever know of a real grudge fight. Frankly I never did. Moreover, I don't believe there ever was one.

In the old days it used to be accepted as the proper form for one fighter to refuse to speak to his opponent while training. There were stories, probably encouraged by some booster, about the two fighters meeting accidentally while doing road work and deliberately coming to blows. This was supposed to convince the public that they were bitter enemies and, consequently, would put up a harder fight.

That to me is a lot of hush. I never believed in it and the more I see of the fight game the less I believe in it. The public likes to look on a fight as a sporting event. No man ever showed poor sportsmanship by being friendly to his opponent before and after the fight. That was my theory and I put it into practice with Jeffries and Johnson.

I used to make a point of going fishing or hunting with Jeffries and of visiting him at his headquarters. On other occasions I would get in Jack Johnson's big racing car and ride with him. I never tried to keep anyone from seeing me do it, either.

You ought to have heard the busy-bodies wailing me about this.

Why Fighters Hobbish.

"It's had done for you to be seen out with these fighters," they would tell me. "There'll be a lot of underground talk. Don't forget you are the promoter and the referee."

"Maybe you are right," I told one adviser. "I'm going out fishing with Jeffries tomorrow. I like to talk to him."

Often Jeffries would ask me about Johnson.

"What kind of shape is he in, Tex?"

"Fine," I told him. "He'll give you quite a fight."

Then Johnson would ask about Jeffries. I would tell him the same thing. I would never try to flatter one of them by telling him he had a cinch. That would be foolish.

In later years I have gone further in this line. I have made special arrangements for the two fighters to be seen together before the fight. To me that looks like sportsmanship.

While we were getting ready in Reno there was much whispered talk to the effect that the fight had been fixed. That is all foolishness. Often I am asked about it to this day.

Jeffries had no idea that Johnson would win that fight. If anything, it was Johnson who lacked the confidence. He wasn't so sure. A proof of this is that Jeffries felt so sure of winning he insisted on 60 per cent of the purse going to the winner. Johnson felt the same way about it. If there had been any thought of Johnson laying down they would have split the purse nearer even. You can go and bet that Jim Jeffries thought himself sure of winning.

866,000 Jeff's Profit.

In justice to Jeffries, or the way, it is a fact that the sudden change of climate from San Francisco to Reno affected him very seriously. He contracted stomach trouble and diarrhea. That made him slow and laggard and he could not entirely eradicate it by training.

A big item in that fight, apparently overlooked by many at the start, was the moving picture rights. Johnson and Jeffries were to divide their share of this equally. Johnson made a bad mistake of selling out his entire picture interest for $50,000. Jeffries held on to his and it netted him $866,000.

At Reno the preliminary arrangements were all sorts of fun. The newspaper men really had more to write about than if he had stayed in San Francisco. There was more of the romance of the Goldfield fight about it.

Johnson kept his admirers and others constantly amused with racing automobiles and his big bull fiddle. Some have an idea that Jack was not serious about racing that car. Don't you believe it. He thought himself the greatest driver in the world and would take any sort of chances.

And That Bull Fiddle.

Johnson also knew how to play that big bull fiddle. It was his delight to get a crowd of white folks at night or afternoon and make the old bull snort. He could actually do tricks with that big fiddle.

Another of his favorite pastimes was to have chicken dinners. Always he had a smile, too. It always looked to me as if Jack Johnson had more gold teeth than any man in the world. There were frequent reports that Jeffries was acting ugly and surly while Johnson was happy-go-lucky and content.

As a matter of fact Jeffries is a big, friendly fellow. He was suffering from that stomach trouble. Try as he would of white folks at night or afternoon and make the old bull snort. He could actually do tricks with that big fiddle.

I watched those fellow train boys. I wanted to learn as much as possible about my job of referee. As the fourth of July approached that refereeing business made me sit up and think.

Tomorrow: Jeff and Johnson in the Ring.

G. M. A. QUINT WINS OVER MARIST

G. M. A. ran wild Friday afternoon on the auditorium floor and piled up a total of 60 points against the Marist quintet. Coach Bean's men managed to score 19 points. The College Park five played great ball, and with it all, clean ball, only three fouls being called. Marist had 19 personal fouls called, but played a hard game and fought its best.

Hearn was the star of the contest and scored a total of 23 points, 11 field goals and 7 foul shots. Patton was next in the scoring, with 20 points, and Mathews accounted for 11 points. The work of the cadets' guards in keeping the Marist forwards so well under cover was a feature of the game, and these two men worked together in great fashion.

For Marist the playing of its right forward, Player, was the best and this man scored 8 points, besides covering the floor well. Williams, Marist center, also played good ball and registered two field goals.

G. M. A. has won every game it has played since its victory over Marist last week. Marist played a good game, but was hardly up to the form she displayed against Notre Dame high last week.

Georgia Quintet Is Winner, 49-24

BY DELACEY ALLEN.

Athens, Ga., February 1.—In a game characterized by just a bit of roughness, Coach Stegeman's Bulldogs ran roughshod over Coach Strozier's North Carolinians, winning the game by the score 49-24.

The Tars did not offer a resistance quite as strict in nature as did Furman last week, and appeared weak in their offense, but they did play a very earnest game in spirit, if in nothing else. Dr. Strozier stated that most of his material consisted of new men and that with a little more experience he hoped to make a better showing in the future.

For the Red and Black, Gurr and Richardson continued to hold the line. Gurr, a high scorer, Gurr, accounting for 20 of his team's points, while Richardson threw 14. Both of these men seem to improve in the fitness of the game at every appearance here and it does seem marvelous how they extricate themselves from almost impossible predicaments and pitch the goal.

The guarding of the locals was very much up to par. North Carolina being held to 7 points in the first half, only four of which came about by field goals. In the second half the substitutions were numerous and it was only at that time that the States did much of their scoring.

Captain Johnston, a red-headed athlete of promise, appeared to better advantage than any of his teammates.

A PIECE FOR THE PAPER

By PAUL WARWICK

Golf and Gloves.

Golf, although a perpetual state of mind, is not a perpetual reality, as much as we here in this neck of the woods like to believe that it is an all-year sport. These cold days haven't been propitious for the true Niblickian.

But the overcoat-shedding warmth which has wrapped itself about the town during the past few days is reviving the voracious appetite of the golf bug. Telephone calls are as often to arrange foursomes as to order coal. Sporting goods stores are getting less and less timid about stacking drivers and brassies and mashies and putters and even rubber tees in the windows.

The bright and shining sun will soon cast its old rays down in earnest; women will again have snatched away from the fireside the wintery gusts were screaming. The galaxy of left-handed golfers will again dot the landscape at Piedmont park; the mountain climbing element will stretch its sturdy legs in the direction of the stockade.

And the clubs! Funeral foursomes will soon again be shrouded in their cloak of universal anathema and men who have been truthful and honest during the woeen days will turn to mendacity and stroke-dropping with which to celebrate the reign of tropical weather. It ought to be fine for Atlanta's disposition, for the old town is never happier than when it goes golfing.

Atlanta glove glutters are in for another treat, it appears, in the impending fracas between Tim O'Dowd and Earl Puryear, the former of Atlanta, the latter speaking the language which belongs to Pierre Van Paassen, Clemenceau and Mistinguette. Jim Mayson has in Tim O'Dowd a fine young scrapper, with more ability, in the opinion of the writer, than he has ever been able to demonstrate to an Atlanta audience.

Tim is constantly fighting and is winning decisions and knocking them over in other municipalities while we go on unaware, most of the time, of his success. Puryear, with a good record behind him, should offer Tim some pretty stern resistance and the two of them should entertain the crowd in fine style.

Tim's last great battle in Atlanta was when he won a decision over Lew Silver, another of Atlanta's fighting prizes. The town doesn't get quite enough opportunity to see either Tim or Lew battle real opposition, so the Puryear fight should be a welcome diversion. Boxing, we believe, has taken on new life in Atlanta—and the next fight will be an opportunity to see whether or not the revival is a flash in the pan.

U. S. HOCKEY TEAM MEETS CANADA

Chamonix, February 1.—The United States and Canada will fight for the hockey championship of the world in the final round of the Olympic Shillalee tournament Sunday afternoon. They both advanced undefeated to the final and championship round by their conquests Friday. Canada out-spied the expert and daring but rather slow team from the British Isles, 19 to 2, and the United States brushed Sweden aside, 20 to 0.

The British skaters were the first to score on the Canadians, who won all their other matches by overwhelming shutout scores.

The Americans, although they out-classed the Swedes, were spent by their exertions and no music ever sounded sweeter to them than the final whistle.

Hockey, called "the fastest game in the world," has revealed something that every player of the Canadians have played it in this tournament. Although the team from the United States undoubtedly is one of the best that ever played the game, the reckless and bewildering dash of the Canadians has made their game the most talked-of feature of the winter sports.

In the semi-final game with the Britons, Canada's men seemed to improve in strength and speed as the contest raged toward the close. The Americans on the other hand seemed winded and although they played at a terrific rate in the third period, and their team work was excellent, the sport seemed to call for an awful effort.

Drury scored seven of the United States goals. Abel made 4, Small 3, McCarthy 2, Snott 2 and Lyons and Wright 1 each. The first period closed 5-0; the second 12-0 and the other eight came in the third.

The championship is to be played off Sunday. The Canadians are the favorites.

S.S. League Teams Will Play Tonight

Seven games will be played in the Sunday school leagues tonight, four being scheduled at Wesley Memorial court and three at the Y. M. C. A. court.

The games at the "Y" will start at 6:50 with Second Baptist and Druid Hills Baptist locking horns, followed by the big game of the evening with the Aggie Feds and Gordon Street Presbyterian, both aspirants for the banner in the National league. The Inman Park and Jackson Hill game will be called at 8:10 p. m.

Games at Wesley court are: First Methodist and Woodward Avenue Baptist at 6:30 and Wesley Memorial and West End Presbyterian at 8:15. Following these two games the Westminster Presbyterian of the girls' league will play at 8 p. m. At 8:15 'Central' the Druid Hills Presbyterian and Gordon Street Presbyterian of the same league will play.

Dr. Strozier stated that most of his material consisted of new men and that with a little more experience he hoped to make a better showing in the future.

For the Red and Black, Gurr and Richardson continued to hold the line. Gurr, a high scorer, Gurr, accounting for 20 of his team's points, while Richardson threw 14. Both of these men seem to improve in the fitness of the game at every appearance here and it does seem marvelous how they extricate themselves from almost impossible predicaments and pitch the goal.

The guarding of the locals was very much up to par. North Carolina being held to 7 points in the first half, only four of which came about by field goals. In the second half the substitutions were numerous and it was only at that time that the States did much of their scoring.

Captain Johnston, a red-headed athlete of promise, appeared to better advantage than any of his teammates.

Beanboys Had Game Own Way Throughout; Bryant Singelton, Bass, Stars

Running up one of the biggest scores of the season, the Atlanta Athletic club basketballs last night trod all over their ancient rivals from Birmingham, and were on the correct end of a 54 to 17 count at the finish of the one-sided fracas. Led by Rufus Bass, Joe Singelton, and Tom Bryant, the Beannmen literally swarmed all over the B. C. tossers, and the invaders never had a chance.

The triumph strengthens the claim of the locals to premier honors in the south, as Birmingham had been going along in nice style until they struck last night's snag. Games next week will practically decide whether the clubbers will have a chance for the highest honors of the section.

The artistic trouncing that the Atlantics handed the Blue and Whites last night was a masterpiece of play for the upsets of the last two years, and Joe Bean added insult to injury when he injected his entire scowled team into the line-up in the second half. Incidentally, those same seconds made the evening's entertainment a twin victory for the club when they finished with a 23-17 score in the opener.

The estimable Mr. Bean had evidently given his proteges "shoot to kill" instructions, as they stepped out right off the bat. In fact, Singelton, Bass, and Bryant ran the score up to 12-0 before the visitors were able to find the location of the hoop. Hilburn scored his team's first points with a ringer that came after eleven minutes of play.

The Atlanta aggregation kept up their great work through the half, which ended with the score 20-12. Their lead had never been whittled down since the 12-0 stage.

And they didn't let up one single bit in the second stanza, as they scored ten markers while Birmingham was chalking up three. Halfway through the period the home guards had increased their lead to 28-15, and evidently in the final of the night, they kept right on with the carnage. When headquarters deemed that the boys had done an evening's work, the entire crew was sent to the showers five minutes before the finish. The score was 52-17 then, and the seconds fought a draw with the hostiles until just before the final whistle, when Cooper's ringer made it 54-17.

The lacing was one of the worst ever suffered by a B. C. quintet, and even the great Hub Grinn was unable to check the mad dash of the blood-thirsty Atlantics. Eight men were shot in to stop the assault, but that was a thing impossible.

In fact, no team in the world could have stopped the club five last night, as they used an offense that knows no stopping. With their uncanny ability to sink shots from any position or location, who is there that can halt such a team? No less than half of their 27 field goals were from behind the free-throw circle, and several were from the center of the floor.

The locals also put on another exhibition of the team play that has characterized their most recent performances, and Birmingham was completely at sea. Birmingham, on the other hand, had few shots, either long or short. Hahn played nice ball under the basket, and stole in behind the guards to drop in several shots.

Bass led the parade with nine field goals, and Singelton was on its heels with eight. Every one of the regulars scored at least once, and other points were accounted for by Bryant's six ringers, two by Sullivan and one each for Ferrell and Cooper.

Hahn, former Auburn star, was the leading offender, as he rang up 7 points. Hilburn added 4, and Mandy and Montgomery 3 apiece.

The asbestos raiser was the real fight of the evening, as the club yankins were pushed to the limit to grab off a 23-17 victory over the Oglethorpe yearlings.

The Line-ups.

Formal Dance at Druid Hills Inaugurates A. T. O. Conclave

Marked by the presence of a large number of the Atlanta college contingent and members of nearby girls' colleges, with the added presence of many distinguished visitors, the superlative given by the Alpha Theta chapter of Emory university and the Georgia Beta Iota chapter of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity at the Druid Hills golf club Friday evening, was the first of the brilliant social affairs which will be tendered the delegates to the A. T. O. conclave now in session.

The beautiful club house was lavishly decorated for the occasion, the insignia of the fraternity forming the chief decorative note. A striking feature of the ballroom appointments was the emblem of the fraternity suspended over the balcony formed of gold and blue electric light globes. Gold and blue banners and streamers were used in effective arrangement throughout the rooms.

Warner's Scotchies provided a program of delightful dance numbers. Supper was served at 11 o'clock to 2000 guests.

Among the distinguished visitors present on this occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Emerson H. Packard, of Brooklyn, Miss. and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney B. Fithian, of Falcon, Miss. Mr. Packard is worthy chairman of the national fraternity of A. T. O. and is making a tour of the southern chapters. Mr. Fithian is chairman of the high council, the governing body of the fraternity.

Dinner Precedes Rehearsal Of White-Dilbeck Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. White entertained at a dinner party Friday evening at their home at North Moreland avenue, preceding the wedding rehearsal of their daughter, Miss Margaret White, and John Austin Dilbeck, whose marriage will be a brilliant event of Saturday evening at Westminster Presbyterian church.

A color scheme of pink and white was developed in the decorations. Baskets of pink roses and carnations were placed on the mantels and tables and at intervals throughout the room were handsome Australian ferns.

The dinner table, handsomely appointed, was covered with a fine cloth and had for its central decorative note a large silver basket filled with pink roses and white narcissi, the handles tied with fluffy pink tulle. Silver candelsticks, which held pink candles, were placed at each end of the table.

Mrs. White wore a gown of blue crepe de Chine.

Mrs. White was crowned in a model of yellow Georgette.

Covers were placed for the members of the wedding party, who are: Mrs. White, Miss Sarah White, Miss John Ferson, Leonard, Miss Mary Kinimer, Mrs. J. D. Lee, Ramsey Kinimer, Joe Cheney, J. D. Lee, John Lancaster, of Macon, Ga., and John Dilbeck.

complementary to Miss Charlotte Frazer, of the Americanization department of the W. C. T. U.

Invited to meet Miss Frazer were Mrs. McPherson, Mrs. Lila K. Dillard, Mrs. John Hornum, Mrs. R. M. Sprague, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, Mrs. W. W. Lee, Mrs. R. W. Lee, Mrs. Maude Cobb Baker, Mrs. W. L. Tenney, Mrs. C. W. Freeman, Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. Mellicham, Mrs. Goodman, Mrs. Julian Bailey and Mrs. Simmons.

Mrs. A. P. Herrington entertained informally at bridge in compliment to her daughter, Mrs. Alfred Englehart, of Akron, Ohio. The guests included a group of close friends of the nonore.

Mrs. J. E. Spurlock entertained a party in compliment to Mrs. Smith, of Chicago, Ill., the guest of Mrs. R. W. Everhardt. Besides the honoree, the guests included Mrs. Everhardt, Mrs. J. R. England, Mrs. T. J. Butler, Mrs. John Sage, Mrs. Finch, Mrs. T. J. Wesley, Mrs. Wilby and Mrs. McLairden.

Mrs. E. B. Durham entertained as her guests at tea Mrs. James Wilson, Mrs. Pratt and Mrs. Lorrman.

Among other entertaining was Miss Margaret Webster.

Mrs. R. C. Bone
Hostess at Party.

One of the delightfully informal affairs of Friday was the bridge-ten at which Mrs. R. C. Bone entertained at her home on Fairview road.

Ferns and cut flowers in many shades and varieties adorned the reception room where the game was played. The Valentine motif was developed in the favors and tally cards. The prizes were hand painted novelties.

Guests present on this occasion included: Mrs. Fred Sears, Mrs. W. H. Perry, Mrs. E. V. Smith, Mrs. William Walter McGhee, Mrs. William Cobb Wallace, Mrs. T. J. Deadwyler, Mrs. Earl Wallace, Mrs. Harry Ahlman, Mrs. O. R. Randall, Mrs. E. Garrison, Mrs. Ralph DeLoach, Mrs. I. T. Calloway, Jr., Mrs. C. S. Burgess, Mrs. W. T. Airheart, Mrs. J. M. Buckner, Mrs. Ann Holmworth, Mrs. R. E. Drennon and Mrs. Bone.

Mrs. J. D. Evans was hostess at tea

Mr. and Mrs. Brown Honor Visitor At Evening Bridge

Mr. and Mrs. James Coleman Brown were hosts at an evening bridge party Friday at their home on West Peachtree street. The honor guest of the lovely affair was Miss Sara Elizabeth King, of Murfreesboro Tenn., the attractive guest of Mrs. Mac Ashill at her home on Huntington road.

The home was adorned with quantities of spring flowers arranged in bowls and baskets.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown were assisted in entertaining by Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Richardson.

The high score prize for the ladies was a French novelty powder puff. The gentleman who won the top score was awarded a leather-bound notebook. Miss King was presented a box of stationery in blue and gold.

Mrs. Brown received her guests wearing a chiffon gown of a soft shade of lavender, beaded in brown beads.

Mrs. Richardson wore a spring model of green chiffon.

Miss King was an attractive figure in a changeable tulle.

Guests for six tables of bridge were invited to meet the lovely visitor.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith Give Dinner Party For Northern Visitor

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Smith entertained at a lovely dinner party Friday evening at their home in Inman Park, the occasion honoring Mrs. George Schmidt, of Indianapolis, Ind., who is the attractive guest of Mrs. George Kusey, Jr.

The table was overlaid with a cluny lace cloth, and gracing the center of the table was a silver basket holding pink roses and narcissi. Silver candelsticks, holding unshaded pink candles, encircled the central decoration. Covers were laid for seven.

Mrs. Smith was crowned in black Roman crepe.

Mrs. Schmidt wore a gown of rose-colored chiffon velvet.

Mrs. George Schmidt was hostess at a bridge-luncheon on Friday at the Belvidere tea room, in West Peachtree, in compliment to her aunt, Mrs. W. L. Blodgett; Mrs. W. L. Schmidt and Miss Emily Thompson, of Spartanburg, South Carolina.

Varicolored hyacinths were used in the decoration of the reception room. Connection holders filled with red nuts and bonbons were placed on each table.

The guest prizes were hand-painted dainties. Top score was a bottle of French perfume, and consolation was lingerie.

Mrs. Schmidt wore a combination of blue and black flat crepe, embroidered in gold.

Those enjoying the game were Mrs. L. F. Phillips, Mrs. Marvin Conway, Mrs. R. W. Evans, Mrs. H. T. Dobbs, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. W. J. Stoddard, Mrs. Arthur Burke, Mrs. John C. Pratt, Mrs. Joe Ruffey, Mrs. Albert Dunn, Mrs. Joe Ruffey, Mrs. Frank James, Mrs. G. B. Forbes, Mrs. William H. Dolph and Miss Stacey McWhorter.

Mrs. Byron Morrison Is Entertained by Mrs. Murdock Equen

Mrs. Byron Morrison, of Minneapolis, Minn., who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Florence Burgess Eckford, at her home on Peachtree circle, continues to receive many delightful attentions.

Mrs. Murdock Equen entertained in her honor Friday at a bridge-luncheon at her home in the Dallas apartments on Peachtree road.

The apartment reception room was charmingly decorated with many varieties of spring blossoms and foliage plants. The guests enjoyed luncheon before the game, the table being effectively appointed in a color note of yellow and white. The central decoration was a yellow bowl filled with white narcissi and Lady Hillington roses and around this were imported crystal candelsticks holding yellow tapers. Cards of the hostess monogrammed in gold marked the guests' places.

Mrs. Morrison was presented an attractive salad set. The prize for top score was a set of hand-embroidered handkerchiefs, while the consolation was a dainty novelty.

Mrs. Equen received her guests wearing a gown of blue georgette with pleated panels of white georgette.

Mrs. Morrison's stunning costume was of broad beige velvet and was with this a new model spring hat of rose milan straw trimmed with beige ribbon.

The guests were Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. Benjamin Peacock, Mrs. Henry Troutman, Mrs. Julian Buff, Mrs. Baykin Pennington, Mrs. Grover Middlebrooks, Mrs. Clement Evans, Mrs. Edward Carter, Mrs. Edwin Lockridge and Miss Dolly Hart.

Mrs. Langloeth
Is Feted.

An elegant affair of Friday was the luncheon at which Mrs. John Marshall Slaton entertained at her home on Peachtree road, complimenting her guest, Mrs. Valeria Langloeth, of New York and Greenwich, Conn.

Fragrant spring blossoms in bowls and vases were placed in the spacious reception room. The tea table was exquisitely appointed and was overlaid with a real lace cloth. In the center a silver centerpiece filled with yellow calendulas, pink roses, white stock statice and anemones formed the chief decorative note. The guests' places were marked by dainty hand-painted cards.

Mrs. Slaton wore a model of Nile green voile with gold lace tunic bordered in moleskin fur.

Mrs. Langloeth's gown was of brown chamoisee, fashioned in the draped style.

Invited to meet Mrs. Langloeth were: Mrs. Tramp Howard, Mrs. Dudley Cowles, Mrs. Reuben Arnold, Mrs. Jesse Draper, Mrs. Wilson-James, Mrs. Don Purdie, Mrs. Rembert Marshall, Mrs. Carroll Payne, Mrs. Albert Thornton and Mrs. Charles McGehee.

Elaborate Tea at Woman's Club Compliments Noted Educator

Mrs. Howard McCutcheon entertained at an elaborate tea Friday at the Atlanta Woman's Club, complimenting Dr. M. V. O'Shea, professor of education at University of Wisconsin, who is delivering a series of lectures in Atlanta.

The guests were received in the living room of the club which was decorated with palms and baskets of spring flowers.

The receiving party stood against a background of palms and included the past presidents of the Parents-Teachers Council, of which organization Mrs. McCutcheon is now head, and leaders of other civic bodies.

Mrs. J. E. Andrews, Mrs. Charles Morris, Mrs. L. L. McCallie, Mrs. Clifford Walker, honorary president of the State Parents-Teachers association; Mrs. Z. Peterson, president of the Fifth district council of Parents-Teachers associations; Mrs. E. D. McDonald, president of the Atlanta council; Mrs. T. T. Stevens, president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, and Professor Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of the Atlanta schools.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. J. C. Malone, vice president of Parents' club; Mrs. L. L. McCallie, Jr., secretary; Mrs. Roy Jones, Mrs. J. B. Morgan, Mrs. D. C. Shepherd, Mrs. Mims, Mrs. J. L. McCallie, and Mrs. N. B. Ellison.

Music was furnished by the Tech High orchestra, and a delightful program of numbers was given.

The tea table was daintily appointed, being covered with lace and adorned in the center with a silver basket filled with pink carnations and narcissi, the handle tied with a bow of pink tulle. Silver candlesticks also tied with pink tulle held unshaded candles of the same shade.

Mrs. McCutcheon wore a gown of natter blue Georgette crepe beaded, her hat a French model of the same shade trimmed in contrasting colors. Her corsage was of pink sweet peas, her hat a French model of the same shade trimmed in contrasting colors. Her corsage was of pink sweet peas, her hat a French model of the same shade trimmed in contrasting colors.

Mrs. Alonzo Richardson was gowned in gray Georgette crepe and wore a black velvet hat.

Mrs. T. T. Stevens wore a black satin gown embroidered in gold, and a black velvet hat trimmed in marlins.

Mrs. Z. Peterson was gowned in black beaded Georgette crepe, and wore a silver hat trimmed in French roses, and a corsage of pink rose buds.

Mrs. J. E. Andrews wore a black sequin gown over black satin and a black hat.

Mrs. Clifford Walker wore a black velvet gown trimmed in rhinestones and a black velvet hat.

Mrs. E. D. McDonald wore a black beaded chiffon and a black and silver hat.

Mrs. Charles Morris wore a blue velvet gown trimmed in georgette crepe and lace.

Mrs. H. G. Hastings was gowned in a black velvet gown embroidered in beads and wore a black velvet hat.

Visitor Continues To Be Complimented.

Two of the social affairs given Friday were compliments to Miss Eleanor Hagood, of Charleston, S. C., who as the guest of Miss Arabella Dudley at her home on Lombardy Way, continues to be feted.

Miss Corday Rice entertained in the afternoon for Miss Hagood and Miss Anna Crittenden, the guest of Miss Effie Daniels. The party was given at her home on Westminster Drive and included a few friends of the honor guests, in addition to the members of her sewing club.

The rooms where the guests were assembled were decorated with white narcissi and placed on consoles. Following the game, tea was served at the small tables.

Miss Rice was gowned in a model of gray Georgette crepe.

Miss Hagood wore blue Georgette with a giraffe of rhinestones and a black straw hat.

Miss Crittenden's gown was of black satin with hat to match.

Miss Elizabeth Reed entertained in the morning at a bridge luncheon at her home on Springdale road complimenting Miss Hagood.

Spring flowers in Dresden shades were used as decorations throughout the reception rooms.

After the game luncheon was served at the individual tables.

The guest of honor was presented with a French perfume bottle, and the winners of top score and consolation prizes were given prize novelties.

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT WORK

Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Stopped her Suffering and Restored her Health

Momence, Illinois.—"I surely can recommend your medicine to other women who have female weakness, as it has helped me very much in every way possible. I was working in a dining room in town, and sometimes I could not do my work; I had pains in the lower part of my body and had to stay in bed. One of my neighbors told me what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was for her, and it has surely done wonders for me. I hope all women who suffer will take my advice as the Vegetable Compound has done so much to bring back my vigor and strength."—Mrs. ALBERT E. DESCHAUD, Momence, Illinois.

Over 121,000 women have so far replied to our question. "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" 98 per cent. of these replies answer "Yes."

That is 98 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it. For sale by druggists everywhere.

FEBRUARY SKIN TROUBLES.
February winds and frosts can be very hard upon the complexion. If proper precautions are not taken, a dry chapped skin will become rosy and unsightly. Chapped lips will grow thick and ugly, and too many colds will ruin the best complexion.

Perhaps some of these suggestions will tide you over one of the most difficult months of the year.

To dry up cold sores and fever blisters make up the following simple lotion: Spirits of camphor, one ounce; sweet spirits of nitre, one ounce. Keep in a bottle and dab over the affected parts every few hours with a bit of absorbent cotton saturated with the solution.

For a skin that is so badly chapped that ordinary cold cream will not affect it make up the following: Cocoa butter, one ounce; lanoline, one ounce; olive oil, one ounce. Melt these three ingredients together and stir gently as they cool. Wash the skin with hot water and use this as a massage at night. It is too heavy for ordinary use, but excellent for a badly chapped skin. It can also be used if the hands are chapped. If that case it is best to smear the hands thickly after washing them, to leave the cream on and wear old gloves all night.

Chilblains we talked about a little while ago. They are one of the most annoying of February ills. But if you keep yourself well wrapped up against the damp cold, if you protect your feet and your ankles when you are outdoors, you should not have much trouble. Wool stockings with low shoes are much warmer than silk for cold weather. For the simple reason that they are more appropriate. Now, always wool and silk are woven together into very good looking hose. If your home is so warm that wool is uncomfortable indoors you should change to something lighter while you are in. It is no more trouble than to put on spats over silk stockings when you go out, which you should do if you cannot stand wool around your feet.

Reader: Henna is used successfully in tinting gray streaks so they become less noticeable. If you are in good health, the loss of so much hair would indicate that your scalp is in need of treatment. A good hair tonic, used several times a week, plus a daily vigorous massage of the scalp will usually be all that is needed. The condition of hair always follows that of the general health, so it is often necessary to build up the system before the condition of scalp can be improved.

Anxious, Brunette: There is no reason for believing that bloomers are not healthy.

Massage the lines with a nourishing cream every day, followed by stimulation from dashing very cold water over the skin.

Distressed: Consult an osteopath about the misplaced bone at the back of the neck.

Mrs. C. A. R.: With hair a medium shade of brown, you can easily tint the gray with henna without changing the natural shade.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in the next issue. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. DELEGATES CHOSEN
TO WORLD MINE MEET

Indianapolis, Ind., February 1.—Walter Nesbitt, of Springfield, Ill., and Thomas Kennedy, of Hazleton, Pa., were chosen Friday afternoon as representatives of the United Mine Workers to the international mining congress at Prague, Czechoslovakia, next June.

CRUSADE STARTED ON OFFICE BUILDING
SNATCH THIEVES

A crusade against snatch thieves, who are the scourge of office buildings, was launched Friday by the Atlanta Association of Building Owners and Managers, resulting in arrest of two negroes in the Atlanta Trust company building on the charge of taking a purse from a young woman on the ninth floor.

Warning tenants in the office buildings not to leave pocketbooks or other articles of value on desks or in unlocked drawers, the association also has placed special officers on guard.

Church Will Hold
Benefit Program
For Building Fund

Rev. Marvin Williams, pastor of the Wesley Memorial church, will deliver a humorous lecture at the auditorium of the Oakhurst public school at 8 o'clock the night of February 7. In addition to Mr. Williams' lecture, a musical program will be given.

The lecture program is being given under auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of the Oakhurst Presbyterian church, for the benefit of the new building fund. The old church was burned about a week ago.

HEARTS AFIRE

BY MAY CHRISTIE

The Brilliant Novelist of Modern Society

INSTALLMENT 36.

Prudence's Detachment.

"Love," said Janet Mercer, smiling, "is the most disturbing thing in the whole wide world. But any woman who dodges it is a fool, and is missing the one big happiness of life."

Her big mouth had the up-quirk at the corners once again, and her small greenish eyes were all alight with joy.

Across the table of the little tea-shop where Janet and she were enjoying this coffee meeting and a morning cup had been Janet, Prudence regarded her friend.

What had transpired to bring that look into her face?

"Well, of all the inconsistent creatures!" Prudence couldn't find the words to voice her surprise. "And you only telling me the other day to beware of men!"

The two girls had run into each other unexpectedly in the main street of the little country town where Janet's lodgings were, and had foregathered for a chat.

Janet looked a little sheepish. Prudence had a disconcerting memory.

"It must have been touch of indignation. I get real old-maidish... sort of waspish... when I'm all tired out."

"Oh, no," said truthful Prudence. "It was Will Ogilvie irritated you. You said—"

"Never mind what I said," Janet stirred her coffee, and then helped herself to another lump of sugar, dropping it with a little "plop" into the steaming cup. "I'm a cantankerous old maid, at times, but I've repented."

Prudence stared at her, wide-eyed. Queer irony of fate that, just when good-kissed Janet had broken her, she should encounter prosaic, level-headed Janet in a love-mood!

"You mean you've made it up with Will, and the two of you are going to marry?"

"Yes—to the first part." Was Janet actually blushing, under her freckled skin? "Query in the meantime to the second."

"Because of his mother, I suppose?" Prudence signed her coffee thoughtfully. She couldn't share in Janet's mood, this morning with such faint praise.

"Will's downright weak, trying himself to her apron-string the way he is."

Now, for years, this precisely had been Janet's own opinion. It had been a fruitful source of quarrel between the oddly-assorted lovers.

But today, her heart full of a sweet, throbbing love that was part and parcel of the spring, and Will's good-kissed, and his broken, "If I love you, Janet, even when I'm a beast to you, I do. I swear it..." she flamed up in quick defense.

"A little like you do when you know what you're talking of. I wouldn't have Will differ for the world. It's his heart of gold that keeps him so kind and thoughtful to his mother. You can bet your life that any man who's made that way is going to be a good husband, and any girl who'd get him is lucky."

Prudence was astonished at the outburst, but said nothing. Janet in a fiery mood alarmed her, rather.

But the fire at once died down. For Janet could not live two minutes in a heart that beat to a melody like the throbbing of 'cellos. The memory of a man's arms about her thrilled this lonely, unlovely woman till the homely, honest freckled face was quite transfigured.

For love is the greatest beautifier in the universe.

"You're... nearly pretty today, Janet," blurted out her friend, then could have bitten her stupid tongue for "blaming" with such faint praise.

But Janet beamed on her, across the tiny table of the tea-shop. No petulant beauty, hardened to compliments and accustomed to being called the "quintessence of love," knew the magic of being "nearly pretty," when for years even one's mother thinks one plain!

"You're a nice child, Prudence," commented Janet, mollified. Then: "Your heart's in the right place... oh no, it isn't—she giggled a little awkwardly, as though too daring in her correction—"I mean to say, if it's in Bert Traymore's keeping—"

She broke off, meaningly. It was Prudence's turn to flush, or be annoyed, according to her character.

But instead she contrived to shrug her shoulders carelessly and reach out to help herself to a chocolate éclair, as though the selection of the pastry was of infinitely more importance than a sweetheart.

"I'm not worrying about men," Then, before Janet could express surprise at this clever air of detachment, she artlessly queried:

"Do you think chairs'll make me fat?"

"Merciful heavens! Is it a child like you thinking of your figure? Whatever's come over you?" Janet's cup was poised mid-way between the table and her lips. "Are you taking a leaf out of Virginia Dale's book, or what?"

Prudence laughed.

"I wish you'd seen her this morning, in Mr. Armstrong's laboratory, with black grease all over her new white hat and frock and on her hair, and streaking right across her face!"

"Good gracious! What was the pair of you doing there? Did the man ask you in?"

"He asked me in," said Prudence, flushing just a trifle under the other's scrutiny. "And then Miss Dale arrived, and went too near one of his experiments—"

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Mending at Home.
If you are afraid the bottom of the glass or pottery vase leaks, pour melted paraffin into it about half inch thick. Then use as usual and have no fear concerning leakage.

That Tell-Tale Dresser.
How about the top of the kitchen dresser? Have you been letting things accumulate until you have a wonderful collection of things that should be out of sight? Look it over.

Just a Little Water.
Should one or two sections in the muffin or gem pans be empty, half fill with water before putting the cakes in the oven. It will keep the cakes from getting too brown and make them more moist.

For the Notebook.
Old stockings make lovely soft dust cloths and they leave no lint.

A cut lemon rubbed over the new shoes will make them take better polish.

A small double boiler is certainly a joy for saucemaking, custard fillings, etc.

Sweet oil rubbed into the soles of the squeaking shoes will sometimes overcome the annoyance.

Great Bull Stock Market In Sight, Leaders Believe

BY R. L. BARNUM
New York, February 1.—Berlin cables reporting a movement to cancel all German internal debts included

Issues of new securities by corporations during the month of January foot up only $250,000,000 against $632,783,000 for the same month of 1923, declines being found in all classes of securities with the exception of those floated by the railroad which amounted to $90,236,000, an increase of $21,956,000.

Steel shares were the outstanding feature of today's stock market on a prediction made by Jesse Livermore that Steel common was heading for a new high record for all time. The old high for Steel common was 136 5/8, made in 1917. Sears-Roebuck reports January sales at $19,302,000, an increase over last year of 1.97 per cent.

Obedience to Law
Not Physical Force—Lane

(The following is issued by the Committee on Church Cooperation.)

"He humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross."

These words are from that wonderful plea of Paul in which he says: "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus."

We are called to think and act as Jesus thought and acted.

We are not to go through the world, looking out and demanding our rights, but seeking and doing our duty, and seeking and doing the rights of others, even our enemies, and obeying the law of love, if need be unto death, even the death of the cross.

Have we "the mind which was in Christ Jesus" to do these things? The question grows out of the last meeting of the Committee on Church Cooperation.

Endless Question.

For many meetings lawlessness, the breaking of the laws of our city, state and country, have been the topic considered by the committee. Not that Atlanta and Georgia are worse in this regard than other cities of America and the world. They are not. But because, not only this committee, but thinking men and women everywhere, are gravely concerned over the spirit of lawlessness and the disregard for all laws, human and divine, evident almost everywhere.

The need to multiply illustrations.

We might begin with pointing out the more than 30,000 cases, many of them involving children and girls, passing in a year through Atlanta's courts, at least attention to the numberless notorious violations of the law, which you, as a citizen of the city, are called upon to observe.

In this spirit, O man or woman in public office, we appeal to you to obey the law governing your office, with all your heart, mind and strength, sworn to by you as an official having all laws which you are a "minister of God."

What if the same spirit, we beg every man, woman and child to observe the law touching your life and home, all laws which you, as a citizen of the city, are called upon to observe.

In this spirit, O man or woman in public office, we appeal to you to obey the law governing your

GEORGIA SENATORS OPPOSE NEW JUDGE

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.
Washington, February 1.—(Special.)—There will be no additional federal judge in Georgia during the present republican administration. This belief became known here today when it was learned that the two Georgia senators and a majority of the state delegation in the house have said they would oppose the recommendation for another judge by Attorney General Daugherty and re-forced by President Coolidge in his first message to congress last December. The Georgians who have discussed the matter in both branches of congress are not willing to take chances on an appointment by President Coolidge upon the recommendation of Mr. Daugherty, as they view the position of federal judge in the state as carrying almost unlimited power and serving for life.

No Georgia Nominations.

No Georgia nominations have been sent to the senate by President Coolidge since he assumed office, although scores of acting postmasters are serving in the state, and in all other state nominations for the same class of officials have been sent to the senate.

Members from Georgia feel that state was exceptionally fortunate when the late President Harding appointed Judge W. H. Barrett, a democrat, of Augusta, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Evans, but they are not willing to take chances on another appointment because they believe it was personal on the part of Mr. Harding.

An unpublished incident connected with the failure of Georgia to send an additional federal judge in 1922 when congress passed an omnibus bill covering judges for several states has become known here. "The house failed to include Georgia in the bill but an amendment by Senator Harris in the senate provided one additional federal judge to serve both Georgia districts. The bill went to conference and a fight developed over the Georgia judge. Senator Overman, the senior democrat on the conference committee, it is said here, called on the late Senator Watson and Senator Harris to ascertain their wishes. The Georgia Bar association had declined to approve any plan for an additional judge.

* Hardwick Considered.

At this juncture it developed that President Harding and Attorney Gen.

eral Daugherty were reported to be considering former Governor Hardwick for the appointment in case the place was created. Senators Watson and Harris knowing they would not be consulted by the republican administration about any appointments, and both being opposed to Hardwick's appointment, advised Senator Overman that he could recede from the senate amendment and Georgia would go without another judge for the time being, rather than take any chances on Governor Hardwick being appointed by the republican administration.

The latest report here is that "friend" Judge Hardwick has acquired about the possibility of his confirmation by the senate at this time in the event he received an appointment by President Coolidge, and Senator Harris has said that he would oppose the confirmation of Mr. Hardwick to any place in Georgia.

Governor Hardwick is holding a position in the department of justice, by appointment of Mr. Daugherty, but it is one not requiring confirmation by the senate. It was stated at the department of justice today that the special war frauds section with which Mr. Hardwick is connected has a special appropriation from congress which will expire on June 30, 1924, until another fund is supplied by congress.

As the situation now stands the majority of the Georgia delegation are waiting for more assurances than they now have from the republican administration that when the federal judge is provided for Georgia he will be acceptable to the lawyers and people of the state.

One Fire Plug Lands Speeding Negro in Jail

Had it not been for an obstinate fire plug on West Hunter street, Robert Cook, negro, Friday night might have equalled records made by Jimmy Murphy, Barney Oldfield, or Ralph DePalma.

According to statements of Officers W. A. Goode and W. F. Bullard, Cook had been imbibing too freely of white muld before he started for a ride.

He was riding serenely on West Hunter street when unexplainable noises upset his urbanity. The noise was the siren on the fire chief's automobile, whirling up West Hunter to answer a call to Magnolia and Vine streets.

In his excitement the negro partially lost control of his machine and swerved onto the sidewalk. His progress was stopped when he struck a fire plug, and the rear of the car hung suspended from its top.

All unaware that the wheels of the car were only creating a breeze, Cook stepped on the accelerator. The wheels were revolving at a dizzy speed when officers arrived. Cook is facing a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

X X X X X to all BOYS: from a Bar-3 Ranch COWBOY

BOYS OF ATLANTA: I am Cowboy Joe. Glad to meet you, partners. I just want you boys to know that out west, on my ranch in Montana, the young boys of your age are going to be fixed up something like YOU from now on.

Every boy out there from seven years up can ride a cow pony, and boys of twelve help to ride range on lots of occasions. One boy, Ed Simms, just 14 years old, but kinda big for his age, is a peach at breaking in horses. I ain't roped in a wild mustang yet that he couldn't stick on.

But there's one thing here that you boys here have that our boys out there on the ranch ain't got on to. And if two Mexicans hadn't held up the stage out there I wouldn't have known where to fix 'em up. The Mexicans skipped, but I overtook them at Pensacola, Fla. After turning them over to the authorities, who will escort 'em back, I've been taking it easy on the return trip, and just happened to stop off in Atlanta yesterday to take a squirt at this here rock you got at Stone Mountain.

When I passed George Muse's on Peachtree I looked out the car window saw a row of Boys' Army Shoes in the window.

Soon as I saw 'em I says "WHOA, SPOTS" so loud it skeered the conductor zigg zagged. ("Spots" is the name of my pony out west.)

I went into Muse's, rattled up to the balcony where the shoe department is, and—the little fellows and the big fellows on my ranch are going to be wearing Muse Army Shoes from now on, same as you lucky Atlanta boys.

When they see these Muse Army Shoes, there ain't going to be no more work done that day. I know 'em. They'll put those shoes on and just walk up and down the big yard, looking at 'em.

If any of you boys haven't got a new pair of Muse Army Shoes, it's my advice to you to make a bee-line for the George Muse Clothing Co., first thing this morning and get a pair for yourself. They just cost $3.75 for little and medium size boys, and $4.95 for big boys and men.

If you ever get out west, stop by my ranch (it's the Bar-3) and spend a while. My cow punchers and little fellows would have a fit—seeing you in your Muse Army Shoes same as they are wearing.

Yours truly, your friend,
(Signed) COWBOY JOE,
Bar-3 Ranch, Montana

College Men Up in Arms At Petticoat Rule Threat

BY HARLAN S. MILLER
Chicago, February 1.—The thin and deplorable veneer of friendship between the masculine students and the co-eds at the University of Chicago has cracked wide open. Threatened with petticoat rule, the men are in arms.

So far there has been an excellent semblance of amity. The number of dates has been normal. The girls promised the men the usual number of pounds of fudge. The men, by and large, have been patient for the movie tickets. They felt secure in occupation of the campus portfolios.

But when news spread around the campus that three of the four reigning presidents at the midweek school are now feminine in tendency, hostilities began without quarter or respite. Dating is in vogue at other universities, the president of each class is invariably a man, while the perfunctory honors of the vice presidency go to a girl. Only death or disaster places the gavel in slim girlish fingers.

Disaster came recently to C. Frier McCollister, who was forced out of school. Vice President Elsa Allison immediately moved to his place as president of the junior class.

A little later John Thomas, football hero par excellence and president of the seniors, "flunked" a major study and was required by the rules to resign. Vice President Dorothy McKelvey promptly began to lord it over the last year students in lieu of the heroic John.

The final blow comes with the disqualification of "Chuck" Davald, captain of the freshman football team, and president of the first year scholars, who is over-perplexed by his mathematics. Davald had scarcely heard the bad news when Vice President Ruth Burdick was signing her name to bulletins stuck up all over the place.

Alarmed by the heretical discovery that one can be a class president without ability to gain a yard on the football field, the men have called a score of meetings at strategically located drug stores and have prepared their ultimatum.

"All the girls except Miss Allison must resign and let men take charge. It is the gist of it. Behind the threat lies a dense mass of masculine 'will to power'."

The student council, which may have the final word, if it talks fast, is dominated two to one by men. The girls are defiant and will insist on equal suffrage to the bitter end.

The American flag was first unfurled on land in the fight at Coochs Bridge, Delaware, on September 3, 1777. The spot is marked with a handsome monument.

FIVE MEN MISSING WHEN BOAT SINKS

Paducah, Ky., February 1.—Five men, missing since the wreck of the steamship Thomas C. Powell, eight miles below here in the Ohio river, still were unaccounted for tonight and generally were believed to have perished in the river disaster.

Reports from the scene of the wreck were that the steamer, grounded on a bar by Captain Sheppard Green after it had struck an obstruction in mid-channel last night, had settled until only the top of the pilot house was showing above water.

Survivors, brought here early today by a tug boat, held the opinion that the bodies of the missing men, two passengers and three negro deck hands, were in the sunken vessel, the victims having been trapped by the influx of water pouring in lower parts of the steamer by slipping freight. The missing passengers are Joseph Creamer and George Turner, both of Sugar Tree Landing, Ky.

DRINKS DEATH CUP BEFORE HIS MATE WAKES TOTS, DIES

Savannah, Ga., February 1.—(Special.)—"Good-bye, I'm going to die," said J. R. Bennett as he woke his two small children after drinking a quantity of carbolic acid in the presence of his wife while sitting at the breakfast table in his home here this morning. Mrs. Bennett said that it was all done so quickly that she did not realize what was happening.

Bennett died soon after.

He is said to have threatened to end his life several times, and to have exhibited the bottle of poison to his wife last night. He is said to have promised not to drink the fluid, in response to pleas of Mrs. Bennett. General despondency is thought to have caused his action.
